$400,000,000, Please.
Sir Oliver Lodge at 80.
Thrills for Girls.
That Ohio Meteorite.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

RAILROADS ASK the Interstate Commerce Commission for an increase in rates of 15 per cent, which would increase their income $400,000,000 a year. The commission will receive the request sympathetically.

Railroads are as necessary to the nation as elevators to a tall office building, or veins and arteries to the body. And if railroads cannot continue operating without the increased income they must have it.

FOR PERMANENT safety, of course, railroads must find some way to keep up to the times and meet motor bus and motor truck competition, of which they complain.

They have uninterrupted rights of way, of value inestimable, and with the right equipment, borrowing ideas from Germany, Switzerland and other countries, they could run passenger cars 150 miles an hour or faster.

The cost would be one-quarter of the present system, which carries passengers weighing 6,000 pounds in a car weighing 100,000 pounds.

IF THE RAILROADS cannot make up their minds to do any experimenting, the government might hire some foreign engineers, and build, as an example, one sample railroad from coast to coast, operating light duraluminum cars, with airplane propellers run by Diesel engines.

It is impossible to exaggerate the value of the unobstructed rights of way owned by the railroads and they ought to utilize them.

SIR OLIVER LODGE, a great scientist, 80 years old yesterday, says men will find "a greater spirit world," to which our senses now give us hardly any clue.

To the statement of Jeans and others that the universe is running down, must stop eventually, everything becoming dead and lifeless, Sir Oliver Lodge replies, as has been done occasionally and humbly in this column, that although the universe may be running down, "there is something constantly winding it up."

SIR OLIVER thinks men will eventually live to be one hundred, a moderate estimate. If the modern man, a regular microbe and disease germ walking menagerie, can last a hundred years, as he often does, a scientific race of 1,000,000 years hence will certainly live three times as long.

SIR OLIVER LODGE will now write his memoirs, having waited 80 years "to have enough to write."

He would have had enough long ago, for from his early youth, his work has been important to the world, which congratulates him on his birthday, and congratulates England on possessing so great a scientist.

THIS, FOR YOUNG people, girls especially, is the age of "thrills." That day is counted lost that doesn't add some new thrill. Modern girls should consider the unfortunate and extremely beautiful girl, Starr Faithfull. She confided to her diary the fact that she intended to have every possible thrill and had fairly well succeeded.

The poor young girl, who has had her last thrill, was found a few days ago at the ocean's edge, her body battered and bruised. She had been killed by one or more of those who had helped her to experience the "thrills."

OHIO IS STILL trying to find out what caused the great shock, knocked down trees and telegraph poles, shook houses and broke their windows recently. The county commissioners refuse to pay the cost of an investigation, saying that they do not think it was a meteorite.

Meteorite or not, the residents of the neighborhood may congratulate themselves on the mildness of its effects.

The history of meteorites includes one that fell in Siberia, "destroying all trees for one hundred miles around," and another "as big as a mountain" that fell on a western desert, burying itself so deep that it has not yet been reached.

For further details see Sir James Jeans' excellent little book "The Stars in Their Courses."

NEWS FROM ROME indicates that the difficulty between the Vatican and the Italian government will soon be settled. According to the Associated Press, the Pope has replied in a conciliatory tone to a letter in which the Italian government expressed regret for recent anti-religious outrages.

The tone of the Pope's latest message is said to be that "of a father grieved at the waywardness of a beloved son."

Mussolini, extremely intelligent, knows that even his absolute power is not great enough to combat widespread devotion to the church, in Italy.

SUITOR HELD IN MURDER OF GIRL

Others Believed Involved in Quarry Slaying; Body of Victim's Escort Sought

LIMA, O., June 13.—(AP.)—Belief that a number of youths were involved in the death of Miss Thelma Woods, 17, slain after she disappeared from a Memorial Day dance, was expressed today by Police Chief Willis Kipker.

One youth, a former sweetheart of Miss Woods, was taken into custody last night, a few hours after the girl's body, weighted down with a 30-pound stone, was recovered from an abandoned water-filled quarry near the city. Authorities continued pumping the water in the belief they also would find the body of Earl Truesdale, Miss Woods' companion at the dance.

CLAIMS ALIBI

The arrested youth maintained he escorted another girl home from the dance about 11 p. m.

Miss Woods apparently was slain not long after she and Truesdale left, Coroner Frank Smith said. The girl had been beaten on the back of the head and tossed into the quarry with the stone tied to her body and her hands tied together.

Truesdale and Miss Woods were introduced only the night before the slaying. Although they failed to return home May 31, relatives believed they had eloped and a search was not started for two days.

AUTO FOUND ON BANK

Authorities began dragging the quarry when Truesdale's automobile was found on the bank and a robe was discovered floating on the water.

Officials said it would require at least a day to complete the pumping of the water in the quarry pit.

If Truesdale's body is not found in the pit it may be in one of several other quarry pools within a few yards of the main hole, searchers said.

Flo Ziegfeld and his galaxy of glorified beauties arrived in Pittsburgh early today to wind up rehearsals for the world premiere of the "Follies," the first since 1927.

They came in a special train. With Ziegfeld were Helen Morgan, Harry Richman, Ruth Etting, Jack Pearl, Gladys Glad and Reri and a host of greats and near-greats, who will entertain Pittsburghers for a week at the Nixon Theater beginning Monday. Manager Harry Brown, of the Nixon, greeted the arrivals.

Mark Hellinger, author of a number of skits in the new production and feature writer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, arrived with the company. He is the husband of Gladys Glad.

Ziegfeld said he brought the "Follies" to Pittsburgh for its initial performances because Pittsburgh is a good show town and he had heard business conditions were improved here.

NATION PRAISES HEARST PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(Universal.)—Hailed as a workable, basically sound means of ending the present depression, enthusiastic expressions of praise of William Randolph Hearst's $5,000,000,000 "prosperity loan" proposal continued to be heard on every hand today following its indorsement yesterday by Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania.

Among the outstanding features of the comment was the unanimous agreement with the publisher that wages should not be cut, and that the psychological effect upon the nation's big businessmen could not be over estimated.

Mr. Hearst urged the government to float a $5,000,000,000 bond issue, the money to be used in carrying out a gigantic program of public works improvements, such as river and harbor developments, constructions of highways and public buildings and others of a like nature.

Skipper Tells of Greeting Nautilus in Mid-Ocean

By Radio Via American News Corporation and Radio Marine Corporation.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The North Pole-bound submarine Nautilus at 6 o'clock last night reported its position by radio as latitude 44:20, longitude 37:00. Because the Nautilus is conserving its batteries, Sir Hubert Wilkins, head of the expedition, indicated he would not file a news dispatch.

Capt. Leopold Ziegenbein, docking the North German Lloyd liner Bremen in Brooklyn, told of a midocean conversation with the submarine Nautilus.

On Tuesday, Capt. Ziegenbein sent a wireless message to the Nautilus, piving her way eastward, wishing Sir Hubert Wilkins success on his voyage to the North Pole.

Capt. Ziegenbein observed that the expedition will be beneficial to all North Atlantic steamship operation if it results in the establishment of a weather base in the Arctic.

COMPANY SIGNS PACT, MINE PEACE SEEN

Creighton Fuel Company in Truce; 'Left Wing' of Union Spurns Mediation

In the face of strenuous opposition to mediation of the coal strike through Gov. Gifford Pinchot coming from the National Miners' Union, left-wing opponent of the United Mine Workers of America, a forerunner of peace was seen here today in the signing of a temporary agreement between officials of the Creighton Fuel Company and the United Mine Workers.

The agreement was entered into by B. L. Henry, president and superintendent, and George Smith, vice president, representing the company, and William Hargest, secretary and treasurer of District No. 5, U. M. W. A., and John Krezula, international organizer, representing the union.

58-CENT RATE

Under terms of the agreement, the company agrees to pay 58 cents a ton for machine coal, 74 cents a ton for pick coal, $4.75 a day for motormen and track men, $4.60 a day for helpers and $4.20 a day for outside work. The company also agrees to a union check weighman on the tipple and full recognition of the United Mine Workers.

HOMELESS AT THE MINES

Evicted by Company at Atlasburg, Pa.

HOMELESS BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD: A MINER AND FAMILY

One of many similar scenes through the striking mine area, a miner and members of his family, often surrounded by friends and neighbors and children, sitting forlornly by the side of the highway, his furniture and belongings about him. This was a Carnegie Coal Company eviction.

TROOPERS AID IN EVICTIONS

A detachment of state police will preserve order today while deputy sheriffs of Washington County continue to evict striking coal miners from the Carnegie Coal Company houses at Atlasburg. Seven evictions were scheduled for today.

The first eviction occurred late yesterday. Trucks, manned by deputies, backed to the residence of John Drango and drove his household effects, his wife and nine small children off company property. Furniture and children late last night were still on the highway.

Drango said he received notice to vacate 10 days ago. He declared his family was evicted because of his affiliation with the National Mine Workers' Union.

FIRM AGREES TO OTHER DEMANDS

Union Representative Reveals Status After Parley; 'Jitneys' Barred by Walsh

BULLETIN.

All of the demands of the striking taxicab drivers with the exception of that for an increase from 37½ to 40 per cent of the receipts as wages have been agreed to by Pittsburgh officials of the Parmelee Transportation Company, Jack Tate, chairman of the strikers' committee, who conferred with Paul Houston and Walter Laird at the company office, said as the conference broke up.

Recognition of a grievance committee and 40 per cent of the receipts is the objective of the taxicab strike, it was learned today as a committee of the striking drivers entered the office of the Yellow Cab Company in Ross street for a conference with Paul Houston and Walter Laird, Pittsburgh representatives of the Parmelee Trasportation Company.

Although extra details of police had been stationed at strategic points throughout the city to prevent disorders, no attempt had been made to restore service halted at 2 a. m. by the sudden walkout of drivers. Police who accompanied between 35 and 40 men to the Ross street garage early today said an attempt was to be made to operate.

The strike paralyzed taxicab transportation.

DRIVERS MEET

The group visiting Houston and Laird included Fred Schaffer, business agent of the union, who called the strike. He did not accompany the committee into the building. He refused to discuss the strike.

A meeting of the cab drivers is to be held at noon today at Fifth avenue and Magee street.

Neither officials of the company or the strikers would discuss the situation. Small groups gathered near the Ross street and Melwood avenue garages. One hundred and fifty gathered in Merchants Hotel, Water street. Police Lieut. James Hoey dispersed a crowd of 50 strikers in the East End.

There have been no disorders, J. P. McGrath, 32, of 1327 Penn avenue, said to be a former cab driver, was arrested near the William Penn Hotel on a charge of being a suspicious person. The arrest was made before the strike call and McGrath was said to have been heckling the drivers still on duty there.

425 CABS QUIT

The strike order was given out at midnight and by 2 o'clock all cabs, except those on long trips, had checked in at the two garages. There were approximately 425 cabs on the road.

An order of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh to prevent the use of "jitneys" during the strike, today resulted in the arrest of Joseph Dragani, 24, of 922 Chestnut street, and Thomas Willis, 28, of 41 Gist street. Walsh had ordered the arrest of all persons operating cab service who do not have a public service certificate.

Walsh, commenting on the strike, said:

"I am going to keep down any trouble during this strike. The public must be and will be protected. I have ordered police to arrest participants in disturbances, whether they be striking cab drivers or representatives of the cab companies."

Stillman Scorns Marriage, But Not Romance

LONDON, June 13.—(INS.)—Apparently in the best of humor, James A. Stillman, millionaire New York banker, whose matrimonial troubles have aroused international interest, registered today at a London hotel after debarking at Southampton from the liner Olympic.

In answer to questions, he told reporters that he and his 53-year-old wife, who recently divorced him and married Fowler McCormick, Chicago millionaire 20 years her junior, remained the best of friends.

Stillman told questioners that it was entirely possible that he might fall in love again, but he said that he did not intend to marry. He said:

"English girls are very attractive. Who knows but maybe I shall fall in love with one? But I shan't marry her."

GERMANS TO SEEK MELLON AID ON DEBT CONVERSION

ALLIES AGREE TO PLAN FOR HIGHER RATE

Better Interest Available On Reparations Payment Mean Huge Savings

BASEL, Switzerland, June 13.—(AP.)—The Havas News Agency said last night it had learned that while Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the Treasury, is in Europe he will be approached on the possibility of conversion of the inter-allied debts now being paid by Germany through the Bank for International Settlements.

According to Havas a plan was discussed at Chequers by the British and German statesmen by which advantage could be taken of better interest rates that had been developed in the past few years. While leaving the inter-allied debt totals intact, it was said the plan would make a saving of from $5,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 which Germany could use to aid her internal financial situation.

ALLIES AGREE TO PLAN

The news agency stated the German statesmen, before they went to Chequers, were persuaded by officials of the Bank for International Settlements not to ask for a moratorium, which they said would hurt the nation's credit, but to attempt to obtain allied support on the plan for conversion of inter-allied debts, paid by Germany, through unconditional reparation payments.

England and France, which was kept informed by England, according to Havas, were unwilling to take the question up directly with the United States, but raised no objections in principle.

The possible savings on the Young Plan payments under the conversion would be accredited to the allied creditors and the plan is for them to turn it over to Germany.

Details were not given of the conversion, which was worked out by financiers of Germany and of the Bank for International Settlements.

ARMS PARLEY HINTED

The news agency attributes to the former allies an intention to meet before next year's Geneva disarmament conference in order to decide among themselves the maximum armament budgets, with the purpose of satisfying American opinion in this respect and to make conversations on war debts more palatable to American opinion.

It is stated by Havas that officials of the Bank for International Settlements, who are watching the European financial situation with closest attention, warned the Germans before they went to Chequers that their efforts to revise the Young Plan or to obtain a moratorium would have a damaging effect on all European countries.

Havas concludes by saying the bank's officials find the immediate financial situation in Central Europe worthy of most careful attention and are particularly impressed by the withdrawal of capital from large German banks, which has been increasing in the last few days."

STRIKE TOPIC OF SOCIALISTS

The coal strike, disarmament and banking abuses will be considered by the National Executive Committee of the Socialist party which meets today at the Mayfair Hotel, according to Clarence Senior, of Chicago, national secretary.

Speaking of the coal strike, Senior explained that for years the Socialist party has favored nationalization of the coal mines, a five-day week and a six-hour day. He declared this would mean no increase in the cost of coal to the public, as, with the government in charge, large profits to private owners would be eliminated. He said:

"I think it is inexcusable and a travesty on justice that mine owners be allowed coal and iron police protection when miners themselves have no police protection."

STRIKE ZONE QUIET

Quiet generally prevailed in the strike zone today following an outburst of disorder attendant upon the movement of strikebreakers into the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company at New Kensington when three men were cut and bruised in the stoning of a railroad car on the mine siding.

The men, George Dubolic, Kinloch; Edward Molecki and John Kolvie, both of Parnassus, were taken to the Citizens General Hospital at New Kensington. Every window of the car was knocked out in the attack of between 250 and 300 strikers, who were dispersed, following the stoning, by state troopers. Between 60 and 75 men were brought into the mine, it was said. Most of them are Negroes, according to one of the men who deserted the ranks of the strikebreakers after the trouble. He said he had been hired in Cleveland and had not known of the strike.

TWO WOMEN ARRESTED

Two women were arrested at the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company when they refused to heed orders of state police to leave company property. They were fined $5 each with the option of five days in jail at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Eugene Mehlick on charges of disorderly conduct. The women, Mrs. James Shaw, 25, and Mrs. Joseph Grice, 36, were unable to pay the fine and were committed to jail.

John Cienalski, 26, declared to be a striker, was arrested by deputy sheriffs this morning following the stoning of a truckload of men being moved into the Pittsburgh Coal Company's Dixon Mine at Imperial. He is said to have been one of a crowd of 40 strikers who ambushed the truck as it moved along the highway near Imperial.

LEGION RESISTS LINK TO OHIO MINE STRIFE

Pittsburghers Urge O'Neil To Halt Emphasis on Members Being Deputies

Emphasis laid on the swearing in of American Legion members as deputies in the labor trouble at St. Clairsville, O., is strongly resented by local members of the Legion, Pittsburgh City Post No. 59 has sent a telegram to Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander, at Indianapolis, saying:

"Dispatches in local newspapers in the last few days describing mine strike conditions in St. Clairsville, O., stressed the swearing in as deputies by Sheriff Howard Duff of American Legion members. While we recognize the right of veterans as citizens of a community to volunteer for police duty in an emergency, we deplore the use of the name American Legion, which by implication may create the impression elsewhere that as an organization we are taking any sides.

"We ask you to emphasize to Ohio State Department and to the sheriff in question that the continued reference to the American Legion in this instance is contrary to our national organization policy."

The telegram is signed by William S. Voorsanger, vice commander.

Legionnaires Halt Mob Threatening Ohio Jail

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 13.—After a mob of striking miners and sympathizers threatened to storm the village jail at Smithfield, O., this morning to free Tony Bunliski, 37, Bradley, O., arrested for inciting disorder in the picket lines, the prisoner was transferred to the Jefferson County jail here.

Deputy sheriff and American Legionnaires held back the mob while deputies fled with the prisoner.

This was the first arrest in a week of disorder in Jefferson County's mine fields.

Sheriff William Yost today swore in 50 Legionnaires to maintain order at Smithfield and Bradley, the County Commissioners having flatly refused his request of a fund of $25,000 for additional deputies. The Legionnaires will serve without pay.

Deputies Rush to Balk Attack on Ohio Man

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 13.—(INS.)—Special deputies with a fresh supply of machine guns, tear gas bombs and other weapons today were en route to the New Lafferty coal mine, where 1,000 striking miners were reported prepared to make an armed attack.

The additional deputies were sent to the mine to reinforce officers posted there after authorities were told 60 automobiles of miners, all armed, had passed through Harrison County.

The mine is operated by the M. A. Hanna Coal Company of Cleveland, all its miners being strike-breakers, it was charged.

Sheriff Howard Duff ordered the deputies to use tear gas bombs, if an attack was made on the mine, and to return any gun fire.

Flag Day Observance Praised by Coolidge

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 13.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

National Flag Day has been observed for some years by official direction on June 14. It is the anniversary of the adoption by the Congress of the flag of the United States. We do honor to the Stars and Stripes as the emblem of our country and the symbol of all that our patriotism means.

Mr. Coolidge

The stars and the red, white and blue colors have a significance of their own, but when combined and arranged into the flag of our nation they take on a new significance which no other form or color can convey. We identify the flag with almost everything we hold dear on earth. It represents our peace and security, our civil and political liberty, our freedom of religious worship, our family, our friends, our home. We see in it the great multitude of blessings, of rights and privileges, that make up our country.

But when we look at our flag and behold it emblazoned with all our rights we must remember that it is equally a symbol of our duties. Every glory that we associate with it is the result of duty done. A yearly contemplation of the meaning of our flag strengthens and purifies the national conscience.

SECOND DIARY FURNISHES NEW CLUE IN HEIRESS' SLAYING

BOOK REVEALS MORE NAMES OF 'FRIENDS'

Stepfather of Slain Girl Predicts Startling Turn In Murder Investigation

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 13.—A second diary of Starr Faithfull, New York beauty found dead on a beach Monday, today was in the possession of District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, of Nassau County, who claims the girl was murdered.

Beyond the fact that the new diary named more men with whom she was friendly and that it strengthened his belief that she was brutally killed and her body thrown into the sea, Edwards withheld comment.

It was hinted a new clue to the mystery was revealed in the second diary.

SEARCH APARTMENT

Detectives searching the lavishly furnished Greenwich Village apartment from which Starr disappeared eight days ago, discovered the diary while Edwards was placing the case of the girl's death before a grand jury at Mineola, Long Island.

That considerable importance was attached by investigators to the new find was evidenced when Inspector Harold R. King, chief of Nassau County detectives, rushed the diary to Edwards by airplane.

Edwards said he would place the second volume before the grand jury when it resumed deliberations Tuesday.

IMPORTANT

Stanley E. Faithfull, manufacturing chemist, who is the stepfather of the dead girl, told reporters that "something very important" was about to break.

Standing in front of his apartment in the same block where Mayor Walker resides, Faithfull said:

"Something tremendously important that I've been hoping could be avoided is going to take place at Mineola in the morning. I can't tell any more about it now."

It was reported that the second diary was "vital" and related events right up to the time the 25-year-old girl disappeared.

BEER SUIT HINTS CAPONE'S FALL

CHICAGO, June 13.—(INS.)—Verifying the scope of Al Capone's gang activities in providing beer in amounts beyond the imagination, a federal indictment charging Capone and 68 henchmen with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law today was seen as the end of the reign of America's biggest gangster.

Five thousand offenses are charged in the indictment over a period of 10 years and, if the case is proved, the government officers said dissolution of the Capone gang was inevitable. The prosecutors estimated that his huge breweries had a daily output of $75,000 worth of beer, which would amount to the enormous total of $200,000,000, three-fourths of which probably was clear profit.

Each of the defendants faces two years' imprisonment if found guilty, and a fine of $10,000. Capone is now on bond under charges carrying 32 years in prison and $80,000 fines for income tax evasion, and a six-month sentence for contempt of court.

Rest or Brains, Is Vacation Season Problem

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Did Mr. Coolidge say the brains of the country needed a rest or the rest of the country needed brains?

We don't think any greater mental effort is required to digest Cal's articles than a lightning bug puts into his tail light.

They are well written, simple and direct to the point. Any child could read them and its old man could explain 'em.

As an ex-president of the United States he packs more authority than a policeman's nightstick with lead in the end. But there was no Coolidge tax on brains in the 1931 budget of literature.

We might as well claim that Amos and Andy are causing us brain fever in the ears. Or that Al Jolson's mammy songs are making our knees collapse from overstudy.

And as a commentator on national questions Cal is smart enough to keep his rowboat out of the steamer lane.

Possibly the work was difficult for Cal. Which may be the reason Cal thought his daily article was a mustard poultice when it really was an icepack.

BIRTH CONTROL STUDY VOTED BY BAPTISTS

Issue to Come Up for Action Next Year; Homestead Pastor Named Moderator

Delegates to the ninety-second annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Baptist Association yesterday moved to appoint a committee for a thorough study of the birth control issue to be acted upon at the next annual meeting of the organization.

A measure introduced by the Rev. P. H. Lynch, pastor of the First Baptist Church, McKeesport, at the suggestion of the Rev. Edward Bleakney, of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, providing for indorsement of the stand taken by the Federal Council of Churches in favor of birth control, was voted upon after the Rev. John E. Forsnight, of the Park Baptist Church, suggested that the committee be appointed.

After a private canvass of the delegates, Mr. Bleakney convinced Mr. Lynch that a very liberal attitude on the subject prevailed among the delegates.

Other ministers who urged the adoption of the resolution approving birth control were the Rev. Oliver H. Sisson, pastor of the Wilkinsburg Baptist Church; the Rev. Roland Hudson, of the Crafton Baptist Church, and the Rev. Lester W. Bumpus, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Three hundred and seventy-five delegates attended the meeting, at which the Rev. H. E. Shade, of the Baptist Church of Homestead, was elected moderator for the coming year. The meeting, which was followed by a play presented by the Dracomtra Players, was held in the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, Dormont.

MRS. NIXON -:- Husband, in Drunken Frenzy, Threatens -:- IN PANIC -:- Frees Self From Grasp, Fires -:- SLAYS MATE

Jailed Beauty Aided by Friends

For the first time in any newspaper Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger tells here the story of the last desperate struggle between herself and her husband that ended in his death. It was because she shot him in self-defense that Charlotte was recently acquitted in Nice, France, of the murder of Nixon-Nirdlinger.

In previous chapters she told of her marriage to the wealthy theater magnate after a whirlwind courtship; their subsequent divorce and remarriage; the jealous quarrels that led to his disappearance, the automobile accident that changed his nature and the renewal of quarrels upon their last tragic trip together in Europe.

NICE.

Only those who have passed through the same terrible experience I am about to relate here can feel or judge the torment, the fear, the anguish of my soul.

The nights and days passed and every moment seemed filled with dread. At night Fred would go to bed with his revolver under his pillow. I would do likewise. I would stay awake at night, imagining the most horrible things. Sometimes I would imagine Fred coming to my bed, leaning over and grabbing my throat.

One night when I was dreaming I had this same nightmare. I awoke with a start and there was Fred standing near my bed. He began to demand where I had been that day. It was terrible. Again he threatened me.

Meanwhile Fred seemed to have on his mind some fantastic idea about an Italian dancer—a gigolo to whom he referred indirectly in some of the letters I already have quoted. At dinner one night he began talking about the Italian dancer. He accused me of flirting with him. I told him not to be ridiculous. I felt the air in the room stifling. I had the premonition of something terrible going to happen.

Excited by Rum

After dinner my husband started working out a crossword puzzle. I retired to my bedroom, put on pajamas and sat down to read. My husband drank some wine and some whisky. Whenever he drank whisky he always became excited. I knew that, but he seemed to have forgotten about the mythical Italian lover.

I knew what that meant. In a little while he would break out again into one of his jealous fits. Without thinking I selected an Italian newspaper, for I was then mastering the Italian language. I was interested in languages, in spite of the reports back home that I couldn't make any headway with French. The fact that I testified clearly in French during my trial ought to be sufficient contradiction of that rumor.

Fred at first looked at me, when he saw me pick up the paper. He said nothing. Then I noticed that he looked a second time at the paper and he shouted:

"It's an Italian newspaper!"

It seemed to him to be the final proof of his suspicions.

"Who's your Italian sweetheart?" he asked again.

"I have no Italian sweetheart," I replied, "and you know that as well as I do."

Then he approached me and struck me. He knocked me about and I screamed in terror. I knew then he was in one of his fits. Fear overcame me. I thought to myself:

"He is mad again. I must defend myself."

Calls Her Names

While I stood in a corner weeping, Fred gulped down a stiff drink of whisky. He went out saying he would put detectives on my trail. He called me names. He said he would revoke his will immediately and disinherit my children. Then he went into the kitchen and drank some more whisky.

During his absence I went into our bedroom, where there were twin beds. Before I retired I took my revolver and put it under my pillow, as I had done so often before. It was a bad and foolish habit, I admit, but my husband was so violent with jealousy that there was no other recourse.

Finally my husband came in and began undressing. He was muttering to himself. Words and sentences—disconnected and yet holding in his own mind a terrible meaning . . . sweethearts . . . Italians . . . I was trying to learn the Italian language so I could talk to an Italian sweetheart . . . beauty contest . . . men . . .

Terrible Nightmare

Suddenly, without warning, Fred went into a fresh rage. He shouted that he would kill me rather than allow another man to have me. I replied, as calmly as I could, that he should have no fear on that score. But he advanced toward my bed and began choking me. Oh, it was horrible. It was a nightmare come true—the thing I had dreamed of and awakened from before in the dead of the night.

I freed myself from Fred's grasp long enough to get my revolver from under the pillow. I hardly know what happened after that. I only know that he struck out at me, that his hands reached my throat and that I fired point-blank. My husband staggered back. Then he seemed to rush toward me again. I think I must have fired again and again—I do not know. I was too overcome with fear.

Fred again staggered out of the bedroom and into a small room adjacent. Then I was seized suddenly with an illness and I fainted. As soon as I awoke I searched for the concierge, but again I fainted. Without remembering anything else I gave myself up to the police.

What followed is history and I want to say no more about it. I was placed in jail and then I recalled that mankind is not all bad, but is also generous and sympathetic and kind. Friends rushed in to help me and this brought a great peace to my tired, confused mind.

Why Columnists Go Daffy

NEW YORK, June 13.

"DEAR MARK," writes Marion B———, of Holyoke, Mass. "A few days ago I read in your column a tribute to somebody's mother. I forget who the party was at the moment, but I do know it was somebody's mother. I re-read the article several times and I felt a sad feeling creeping over me. When I read such things, I always have the same sad feelings.

"I'm sentimental about those things, Mark. It's hard to explain on paper, but I'm very emotional that way. Ever since I was a little girl in school, people have told me I was too sentimental. But I always told them just what I'm telling you. Can I help it if certain things make me feel that way?

"After thinking for a while, I decided to send you this letter. It's a tribute to somebody's mother. I can't write it as you would—but if you want to, you can fix it up.

"Who is it that comes to you every night, no matter how far away?

"Who is it that speaks to you, whether you're on land or whether you're at sea?

"Who is it that is always willing to sing your favorite lullaby?

"Who is it you can't get away from, no matter how you try?

"You know the answer, Mark."

Indeed I do, lady. It's Rudy Vallee. . . .

"MR. HELLINGER," writes Frank Johnson, "I am not a gagman, but sometimes words slip from my mouth that form into gags. For instance, the other day I had a spat with my girl friend and she says:

"'You big bozo. If you were the last man on earth I wouldn't look at you.'

"Then out of my mouth comes:

"'Listen, Mabel. If I was the last man on earth you wouldn't even get a chance to look at me.'

"Now the iea of that statement is very true, and yet one would take it as a wise crack. If I was the last man on earth, why naturally I would have so many women around me that my Mabel couldn't come near me even if she wanted to. Catch on?

"Now my object is this. Being as I don't have to think these gags out of my head, I thought that would be reason enough to get me a job as a newspaperman. I would like to be a columnist and have my own place to print wise cracks. How should I make a start about getting such a job?"

I wouldn't be foolish enough to hand you any advice about columning, Mr. Johnson. You're too far ahead of the rest of us as it is . . .

* * *

"BROTHER Hellinger:" writes Boris Sandorvich. "I hope you will not mind the salutation. As a matter of fact, the purpose of this entire letter is to call you 'brother.'

"I have read your column for many months. Sometimes it is pretty bad. But every so often I see in it many things that are written for the heart—and from the heart. Seldom as it occurs, then, you still appeal to me occasionally. Thus my letter.

"I am proud to say that I am a Communist. I think that you would make a splendid addition to our party. I want you with us. Please write me, telling you will join us. And then await the fine new feeling of being a Red."

I hate to disappoint you, Brother Boris, but it is by no means a new feeling for Hellinger to be in the red. . . .

* * *

"I AM ONE of your seven readers," writes "A. M. M. A." "If that means anything, will you grant me a favor?

"May 28 was my birthday. I don't know why I wanted to make this birthday outstanding, but I do. I suppose it's because, for the first time in my life, I am truly in love.

"The man I love is so far above me in life and so far away in distance that it's practically hopeless. However, this is the favor. Will you, in the near future, devote a column to Gary Cooper?

"I'm not going to say, 'I'll die if you won't,' or something like that, because whether you do or not will never change my feeling for 'Him'. All I can tell you is that I will appreciate it greatly.

"Thanks loads. And when I become his wife I will certainly visit you and thank you in person."

In case you don't recognize me, girlie, I'll be the fellow behind the long, gray beard. . . .

* * *

"SIR:" writes Arthur Brown, of Brooklyn. "I write you merely for advice. Anything you can tell me will be more than appreciated.

"Some months ago I completed a motion picture manuscript that all my friends consider exceptionally good. As a matter of fact, many of them have informed me that I have written the finest story they have ever read for motion picture purposes. I don't believe it's as good as all that, of course, but I do know it is valuable.

"Now, I'm not foolish enough to think anybody can sell a picture story without being on the 'inside.' Although I was afraid they would steal my idea, I took a chance and sent my manuscript to five different studios. When it came back from the fifth place I knew you had to have 'pull' in order to sell a picture story.

"Last week I received a very fortunate break. I am employed by a jewelry concern during the day (I do my authoring at night), and it was decided that I was to go to Los Angeles on a special mission during July. While in Los Angeles, I will naturally visit Hollywood. And I know I will be in a splendid position to sell my story.

"What I want from you is advice on the best way to go about it in Hollywood. Whom should I see first and what should I do?"

I'm only too happy to help you, Mr. Brown. When you get to Hollywood, you will see a great many men sitting on the curb and holding manuscripts in their arms. They will be crying bitterly. Just you pick out a comfortable spot and sit right down with them. . .

* * *

"I SEE by one of your recent columns," writes George Marshall, of East St. Louis, Mo., "that you are suffering from hives. You and I can shake hands because I suffered from them for several years. It wasn't until recently that I discovered the only remedy. It cured me, and I know it will do the same for you.

"When you get home tonight, get yourself an old rag and dip it in a large can of bicarbonate of soda. All this stuff about bathing in bicarbonate is the bunk. What you've got to do is to inhale it.

"After making sure that there is plenty of bicarbonate on the rag, you place it in a pot and light a match to it. You then inhale deeply while the rag burns. Of course, the odor of the burning rag is rather sickening. But I can assure you that, after a few treatments like that, your hives will be gone."

Sure. And so will I . . .

PROFITS IN DOPE ESTIMATED AT 15 BILLIONS

Narcotic Conference Hears League Figures; Hope for Drug Limitation Revives

By WINIFRED BLACK

GENEVA, June 13. — Fifteen billion dollars—that is the profits of six years' work selling dope "underground."

These aren't figures given by some wild-eyed fanatic preacher against dope traffic. They are the figures given the international narcotic conference of the League of Nations by its own secretary.

No wonder there are those who are willing to fight to the last ditch to keep any fool of a country from sweeping all that money out of the way.

The manufacturing countries that have had a monopoly on dope are fighting with every weapon they can find.

The conference decided the British quota plans are only another way to keep these billions in circulation among great dealers.

Some observers rejoice to think that quota plan is dead for good.

The Japanese presented an excellent plan which fitted in with the American idea.

The French made an amendment to the Japanese plan and when the French and the Japanese got together it began to look as if something honest and practical might come from the narcotic conference.

But what is that cry of defiance and scorn echoing through the conference room?

The Japanese plan, the French plan and the American idea are "poor stuff, nonsense." They were squelched for the time being.

There are those who hint there is a catch in the French plan.

But on the face of it France has wheeled into line with Japan.

America shows signs of being right in line when the wheels begin to move, and today it begins to look as if the conference might really amount to something.

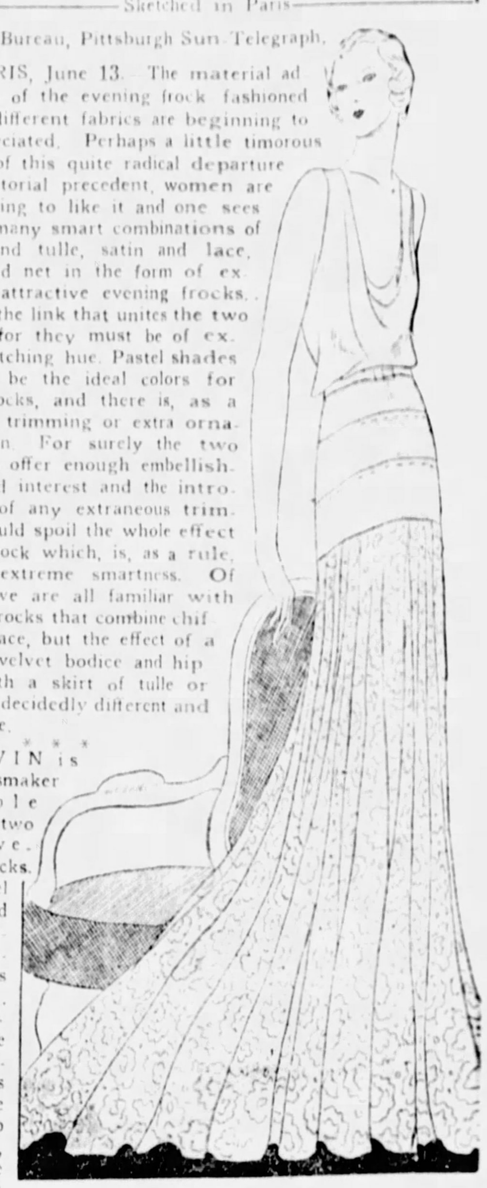
PARIS FAVORS THE EVENING MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 13. The material advantages of the evening frock fashioned of two different fabrics are beginning to be appreciated. Perhaps a little timorous at first of this quite radical departure from sartorial precedent, women are fast coming to like it and one sees ever so many smart combinations of velvet and tulle, satin and lace, crepe and net in the form of extremely attractive evening frocks. Color is the link that unites the two fabrics, for they must be of exactly matching hue. Pastel shades seem to be the ideal colors for these frocks, and there is, as a rule, no trimming or extra ornamentation. For surely the two materials offer enough embellishment and interest and the introduction of any extraneous trimming would spoil the whole effect of the frock which, is, as a rule, one of extreme smartness. Of course, we are all familiar with evening frocks that combine chiffon and lace, but the effect of a satin or velvet bodice and hip yoke with a skirt of tulle or lace is a decidedly different and novel one.



* * *

LANVIN is the dressmaker responsible for the two fabric evening frocks. The model sketched is a splendid example of this mode. Shimmering lime green satin makes the bodice and hip yoke, while the trailing soft skirt is of matching green lace. There is a narrow belt of the satin fastening with a strass buckle. The neckline is slightly draped in back as in front, but in a much deeper decollete.

Contrast Vogue Prevails In Fashions This Year

PARIS.—(INS.)—Summer blouses are really very summery this season coming as they mostly do in fine linen, batiste, all-over eyelet embroidery, pique and novelty washable silks, nearly always with shiny faconne designs on dull ground. Lace is another very summery medium which has come to the fore, particularly in creamy tints and lingerie types such as Alencon. Fine woolen laces are also much in vogue.

The contrast vogue so prevalent in costumes of all kinds is also of great importance among blouses this summer. Charlotte Revyl uses white handkerchief linen covered with eyelet embroidery in red and blue, save for the bands of white forming collar, outlining the yoke and bordering the peplum.

Jenny uses a novelty silk pique with collar and tabs outlined by blases and a flat red flower appliqued to the outer tab. Another in fancy silk has small shiny dots woven into a dull ground and all the edges are scalloped. Of special interest, is the unusual back yoke in one piece with short sleeves.

Another designer is making the sleeves the most important part of her organdie blouse with a low blouse puff falling below the short cap. It is trimmed with ruffings of tulle which also make many sleeves these days.

For evening there are decollete blouses entirely covered with small sequins except at the waistline where the silk is left plain so that it tucks into the top of the skirt if one wishes and makes no bulkiness.

Descendants of Colonial Families Are Married

NEW YORK.—June, the month of brides, is crowded with nuptial festivities uniting the sons and daughters of many prominent New York families. Both are descendants of early colonial families. The bride is descended from Capt. John Bissell, a seventeenth century settler in Connecticut, and Richard Warren, who came over on the Mayflower. The groom's colonial ancestor was John Valenine Hecker, who also settled in Connecticut.

PENSION DRAIN ON CITY DENIED

That the increases in pensions voted by the Police Pension Fund Association yesterday will not be an obligation of the city, was the answer given to a delegation from the League of Women Voters prior to action taken by directors of the fund.

The directors told the women that the pension fund association is a separate corporation, and that if financial difficulties are encountered the taxpayers will not suffer. The delegation was then dismissed, and the directors, after debate, voted five to four to raise the pensions of all retired police officers from $71 to $85 a month.

They also voted in favor of a $2,500 yearly pension for Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh upon his retirement. This is an increase of $1,500 a year. Walsh, himself, voted against it.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

The barbers' bill which is on Gov. Pinchot's desk should remind the tonsorial victims that the barbers aren't what they used to be. Barbers used to be surgeons; now they're just barbers. The bill which the Governor will or will not sign requires a license for a barber. Such a bill 20 years ago would have stipulated not the elementary ability to shave and haircut a customer but, if needs be, to remove his appendix and diagnose that stomach condition.

William Pfarr

Where have the cuppings and leeches disappeared to? Where are those window-size photographs of the serious, mustached gentleman who was being cupped from head to foot? In those days when a gent accidently acquired a black eye he hurried to the nearest barber and asked for the leeches. And, if at the same time he had accidently loosed a tooth, he'd have the same barber remove it. Today the owner of a black eye usually slaps a steak against it, then calls up his favorite beautician.

Black eyes, as we say, aren't what they used to be, and the fault, as we see it, is the automobile. In the old days a gent who was inclined to black eyes would merely have to step out of the buggy and finish the argument. With traffic conditions as they are, how can he step out of an auto?

Elizabeth is a quiet, respectable little town seldom given to murders or manslaughter. But a few nights ago something happened there, and it comes under the head of fish stories. Martin Craighead and a half-dozen friends sat around the figurative hot stove telling fanciful fish stories. His friends recently had returned from a fishing trip, and they were in fine imaginative fettle. Mr. Craighead had little to contribute, but the stories impressed him—so impressed him that during the night he awoke in bed with his hands clasped tightly about the neck of his 6-year-old son Bobby and shouting, "I've got it; I've got it!"

Frank Boyd, veteran detective, would tell you that if Alex Miller had lived, Miller would have developed into an outstanding detective. One reason was that he could remember faces, another, that he was patient and persistent.

True enough, he was gullible in certain directions and when he was just a stenographer at detective headquarters Boyd and Jack Lally and Clyde Edeburn would take advantage of his gullibility.

Alex made no secret of his burning desire to be a detective. And, walking along the street with Boyd and the others, they would point out anybody and lie, "See that guy? That's Louie the Lug—wanted in a dozen cities."

Finally Alex won his appointment as a detective. Almost immediately he hurried to the Pennsylvania Station and gave all the passengers the once-over. He stopped two men whose appearance seemed suspicious—to Alex.

"To headquarters, boys, the boss wants to see you," Alex told them.

As Alex trotted into the bureau with his prey Boyd, Edeburn, Lally and a half-dozen others almost fell from their chairs in astonishment. Alex had picked up two of the best confidence men in the country—con men who were wanted in all the big cities and for whom Lally himself was supposed to be keeping an eye open. Alex didn't have to submit to much Joshing after that.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

My daughter has been graduated at a girls' preparatory school. They read off what course each girl had taken. When they said "Mary Rogers, diploma in English," I had to laugh at one of my children studying English. Why, it's just inherited. You don't have to study it in our family. Doug Fairbanks had a niece graduating. Wallace Beery had a relative, Frank Lloyd, the great director, a daughter, and all four of us just sat there and purred like four old tom cats basking in a little reflected sunshine and secretly congratulating ourselves on choosing a profession where education played no part.

Bebe Daniels Again to Be Comedienne in Romance By Lenore Coffee

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.

Interesting news for the fans who prefer Bebe Daniels in comedienne roles instead of the dramatic parts she has played recently, is Warners' selection of "Bed and Board" for her next starring vehicle.

Following the arrival of the "blessed event" next September, Bebe is scheduled to start the picture.

The story, described as a light and frothy modern love tale, is an original by Leonore J. Coffee, and has been patterned especially for Bebe's particular style of comedy.

Bebe Daniels

Since the actual starting date is so far in the future no director or supporting cast have been assigned.

Bebe is one of the fortunate ones who has another field to turn to if she ever wants a vacation from the studios. There's a concert tour all ready and waiting for her signature, and besides her recent radio work there are several broadcasting offers awaiting her acceptance.

INEVITABLE AT ANY PRICE

Two comedians in the Loew's stage revue furnish a chuckle with their depression crack that times are so bad the telephone operators are giving two wrong numbers for the usual nickle.

LATEST GOSSIP

After 14 years of enmity, Marjorie Rambeau and Max Marcin are speaking again. They quarreled during a stage rehearsal in 1917 and didn't speak until yesterday, when Marjorie started playing in "Silence," which Marcin is directing. . . . One of the outstanding sights at Malibu these days is Scenarist Benjamin Glazer, wearing a yellowish-green sunburn preventative. . . . J. W. Crosby, Sam Goldwyn's scout, who visited numerous cities in search of new talent, has returned empty-handed. . . . The expensive dressing room bungalow built for John McCormack when he was making "Song o' My Heart" has a new tenant. It has been unoccupied since McCormack left Fox, but Thomas Meighan is Irish enough to match the thatch roof, and has been assigned the bungalow. Incidentally the authentic Irish thatch roof was built by a Russian. . . . Rumor has it that Radio is standing pat on the figure they quoted Richard Dix on his new contract. . . . Also that Ricardo Cortez will step into his part in "Marcheta" if the start does not re-sign. . . . Louise Fazenda celebrates her birthday on June 17. . . . And Edmund Breese on the 18th. . . . Due to retakes on "Confessions of a Co-Ed," Phillips Holmes has postponed his New York trip temporarily. . . . William Collier, Sr., is one who holds out for terra firma, and has yet to make his first airplane flight. . . . Miriam Hopkins, Paramount's newest arrival from the East, and her husband, Arthur Parker, have taken a house in the Hollywood hills.

Richard Dix

Not an Adam In Penn's New Eden

By GEORGE SEIBEL

With Bobby Grice and her band, all girls, with the California Nightingales, all girls, and with every singer, dancer, comedian in the revue of the gentler sex woman has it all her own way at the Penn this week. David Pesetzki, conducting the symphony orchestra, and Dick Leibert, at the organ, do their level best to inject some masculinity into the bill, but they are working against heavy odds.

George Seibel

Pesetzki received a warm welcome as he again took up the baton. He is an accomplished musician who can make the classics popular. It was a pleasure to see him rising out of the underworld.

SALVATION ARMY FILM

The picture is a milk-and-water drama based on Kenyon Nicholson's "Torch Song," and giving Joan Crawford a chance to wear a Salvation Army uniform.

At first Joan is a gay vaudeville artist, singing blues when she is not making love to a drummer—mercantile, not musical. He ditches her to get married. She tries to drown herself and is saved by a Salvation Army captain. Then she joins the army to meet her faithless drummer a year later, and fall for him again. After the muscular Christian has knocked down the insolent sinner, Joan decides to stick to the army.

Why it should be called "Laughing Sinners" is a mystery. It is tepid romance of the obvious sort.

WHERE TITLE FITS

The title would fit better for those wild women, Hilton and Almy, who do some riotous comedy that is almost a knockout for one of them. Their act makes up in punch what it may lack in refinement.

As for that quality known as pep, that lanky damsel Bobby Grice overflows with it. She does not stand still for five seconds—she is all joints and jumps—she is a comedienne as well as a dancer and musician. With her 56 assorted girls she provides a real novelty in stage shows, an Adamless Eden in the Penn.

34 Rumanians Sentenced as Spies

BUCHAREST, June 13.—(AP.)—Thirty-four persons, including two army officers and three women, were given heavy sentences after being convicted yesterday by a court-martial of spying in behalf of Russia. The trial lasted 45 days.

Maj. Varzara, whom the prosecution declared the chief culprit, was sentenced to 20 years penal servitude and dismissal from the army. He was found to have supplied details about the Rumanian army at a fixed salary.

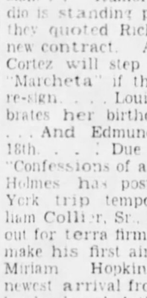
Injured in Fall, W. Va. Vet, 97, Dies

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 13.—(AP.)—David Games, 97, oldest Civil War veteran in Marshall County, died yesterday from injuries he received Thursday when he fell and broke a hip in an effort to escape from the hoofs of a restive horse. He had attended every Memorial Day observance here for 60 years and most of the state meetings of the G. A. R.

MUSIC

Jeanne Brideson

It is not often that Pittsburgh has the opportunity of hearing promising talent or real genius at the very beginning of a musical career. But we did hear such a child last night in the auditorium of the Nurses' Home of Mercy Hospital, eight-year-old Jeanne Brideson, who plays violin as if she always had done so.



J. Fred Lissfelt

Her opening number was the Mendelssohn Concerto, the warhorse of many a seasoned player, which she executed with all the repose of an adult. All the brilliant technical difficulties—harmonics, pizzicati, long cadenzas, and breathless scales fell easily from her little fingers. Then there came an arrangement of a Spiritual, (was there a touch of complaint in it, Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen?), a Spanish Dance of Rehfeld, a delicate Minuet of Milandre and a stirring Czardas of Monti.

Possessing a phenomenal memory, resources which take care of unexpected difficulties on the platform, large tone for so small a person, and a seemingly natural feeling for cantilena and the long phrase, this child should go far.

Her teacher, Ralph Lewando, played accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Gus Edwards can pick 'em in infancy. One of his discoveries is Mitzi Mayfair, youthful "Follies" dancer, expected by Flo Ziegfeld to be another Marilyn Miller. G. Ed. recognized her ability when she was a mere bakers' dozen in the matter of years.

* * *

Small Timer, perspiring from the heat of the footlights, says he has no more use for water as a summer beverage than Bernard Shaw has for razor blades, and that all statements as to liquid assets of his friends, if any, will receive full consideration from him.

* * *

The Harris is not in the banking business, but it will change bills today. The new prog. features Laura La Plante in "Meet The Wife." Harry Myers is in the cast as a head man.

* * *

Small Timer advises his audience never to find fault with a man's statement that he is self-made. It might be an apology instead of a boast.

Capt. Menke, a manager who is so busy that he never sees his own plays, will keep "The Lure of The City" on the show boat, Golden Rod, at Montrose, as a lure for the city of Pittsburgh, all of next week. His second opry will be—oh, well, what difference does the title make.

Small Timer, breathing hard after his dance, gasps that although he is winded he would regret being given the air just at present.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

It's a grand show—the Stanley's. Good screen, good stage. Of principal importance is the excellent photoplay feature, in which Janet Gaynor has her most bewitching part since "Sunny Side Up." If you can't love her as Judy Abbott in "Daddy Long Legs" there's something the matter with you heart, that's all. Of course "Daddy Long Legs" is swell assistance for any actress, even a Janet Gaynor. Ruth Chatterton's fame was helped by it as a stage play, and Mary Pickford's charm found just the right setting in it as a silent picture.

It's all about an orphan girl in an institution, selected by a bachelor to receive a college education. She doesn't know who he is, but calls him "Daddy Long Legs" in her letters to her benefactor. She even meets him and falls in love with him without knowing his identity as it relates to her status.

Warner Baxter is the "Daddy" boy. That way with the ladies that Warner has comes in most handy. You'll like him more than ever. Then there's Una Merkel, as one of Judy's college chums. Her southern drawl—you'll love that! And John Arledge, as Jimmy, her co-ed boy friend, brash, breezy and bustling, makes you glad to know him.

But there is a boy in the orphanage sequences, Kendall McComas, who will stick in your mind, just as Wesley Barry did in the silent version, which jumped him into prominence. Kendall doesn't drink cider, as Wesley did, and his "business" is entirely different, but he makes laughs just the same.

The cast is strong throughout and the picture is sheer delight, sentimental but not mushy.

On the stage Dick Powell guides the destinies of "Parlor Sports." It features Lulu McConnell, the husky-voiced weeper, in hilarious skit that develops from a game of bridge. Fields, Smith & Fields dance eccentrically for their generous share of the laughs. Dick, himself, croons into the funnel and it comes out "Say a Little Prayer for Me," with a soft high note. Ukelele Pat Haley and cute Dorothy Bushey help the bill. Bernie Armstrong's organ sets 'em all a-whistling.

Lonely Wife Is Heroine

By MILDRED FILLMORE

"The Lady Who Dared" opened yesterday on the screens in both the Davis and the Enright. It is a picture with the neglected wife theme.

Billie Dove is starred as the lady. She's married to a diplomat, who is always engaged in "government business." So she looks elsewhere for romance and falls victim of blackmailers. The locale is the capital of some South American country.

Sidney Blackmer plays the husband role. And Conway Tearle is present as an adventurer and smuggler. He makes a gallant gesture on behalf of the heroine near the finale and arouses a lot of sympathy for himself.

The picture is based on the story, "The Devil's Playground." The cast is satisfactory.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Mr. Ziegfeld phoned to say that after all these months of comment regarding Ruth Etting's legs, they will be revealed in tights for the first time in the new "Follies" . . . A woman phoned to inquire if a Mr. Brooks was your assistant . . . I told her that you never had an ass't, and she must have swooned, from the gasp I heard . . . Mr. Coolidge, I was told, is very much annoyed at your comment on his "private life" because of your crack that he had churched his electric horse for a rowing machine . . . Get hot (under the collar) with Coolidge . . . Esmond O'Brien would like to know what you meant by saying many members would desert the Atlantic Beach Club for "a rival" . . . He said a rival group folded last year . . . The Long Branch Record would appreciate any other information you have about that city's new woman Police Comm—they had heard rumors, but cannot check . . . May I join in the fun of suggesting punny names for Heywood Broun's planned show for unemployed actors? . . . Looka . . . "What Is So Rare as a Heywood Broun?"

Kelcey Allen and M. Solmson called and said they had clippings from The Era, a London paper . . . A writer on it socked the theatrical item collectors of London for muffing the Shubert $2,000,000 theater sale, which you ran 48 hours before the cables sizzled . . . It appears that the same commentator, after giving you a break on the beat, said you had played the Palace in New York and were very bad . . . I asked Kelcey and Solmson to send the clips for your "rapoook" . . . You're all wet about Nemo Egan being married to J. Higgins and blessed-eventing — according to the family, but after checking back on your original copy it wasn't your fault. The name should have been Regan . . . I explained . . . Norman Sullivan (not Sullivanity), of Stratford, Conn., called to say that people who live in glass houses should not offend Broadway columnists . . . A lad named E. Ross thinks it would have been nicer if Texas Guinan had said, "Well, 50 Million Frenchmen Can't Be Young!" . . . But Old Faithful Elinson topped them all with: "Miss Guinan seems to have had a Ban voyage."

One of the Brooklyn papers called to ask if you were going to be a judge of a contest at the Young Folks' League of something or other, because that organization had sent out a press release so asserting . . . I told them you never went in for that hooey . . . The Germans are planning a sweepstakes, to be held at Baden-Baden on Aug. 28 . . . Before the week is over the U. S. will be flooded with the tickets . . . Martin Ullman called to say that national advertisers are insisting that their illustrations show as much of the human body as they can get away with in the newspapers and magazines . . . Richard Atwater, who did a column under the name of "Riq" for a Chicago sheet, has written a lovely book for children called "Doris and the Trolls" . . . It is really charming. I'll get one for the children . . . It begins so cute—like this: "There were once two sisters, and their names were Doris and Peggy. Doris was just big enough to go to school, and Peggy was little enough so she couldn't go to school" . . . John Byram, of the Times, says you ought to thank Mrs. Gilbert Miller for introducing your stuff to the London lorgnette set . . . George J. Nathan called to say goodby.

Myrtle Craig Willard called to tell you that in a barber shop at Forty-seventh street and Ninth avenue there is a chap who looks exactly like Chaplin. . . . I heard one on Graham McNamee that happened during the Derby before last. . . . Graham got all fussed at the microphone as he discussed Lord Derby, who was standing alongside witnessing his first Derby in America, and Mac said: "Lord Derby has never missed a Derby in this country!" . . . To which His Lordship shouted into the mike: "Not by a century!" . . . Oh, all right then, let it go, let it go . . . The Chris Penders would like it known that they are not estranged.

It rained all day—very glum around here, so you missed nothing. . . . I just finished reading the advance copy of "The Columnist Murder" . . . Wait'll you read the description of yourself, how you look when you're dead. . . . Ugh! . . . Glad the park authorities are going to do something about the battered Maine statue at the Circle . . . You can tell them, too, about Bryant Park at Forty-second street and Sixth. . . . The year round it is the custom to burn newspapers and refuse in three open-topped containers. . . . In the winter it doesn't matter so much if the ashes are blown about, or even the sparks. . . . But during warm and muggy weather such as we've been having, it is highly obnoxious. . . . Sez me!

Did you know that Ethel Borden, who will appear with Viola Tree in the "Follies," is the most important recruit from society? . . . Yes, even more so than Ruth Draper, who, incidentally, is one of the few sassiety ladies who went on the stage who hasn't been chucked out of the social register, as it is laughingly called. . . . That chap you see with Gene Buck so much when he is here is Mr. Dawes, our Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, and be sure and spell St. James's with the s—apostrophe—s . . . So many of our finer journalists think it is wrong to spell it that way—which is the only correct way . . . Wilma Ross, former secretary to the very sick H. Reichenbach, has hung out her shingle at 250 Park avenue, so give her a break and mention it, huh? . . . Harry, I am sorry to report, is having a tougher time of it at the hospital, poor chap . . . Don't you miss his great help and his amusing cracks? . . . I'll wager you do.

For Things You Never Knew, etc.—Bananas are not hard to digest; apples are harder. . . . They feed infant babies bananas when they can't take anything else. . . . Incidentally, sir, the first bah-nah-nah in this country was produced in a grove near Kingsville, Tex. . . . How true it is I do not know, but I'm told that the Mrs. M. E. Young, of Toronto and here, won $140,000 in the recent Sweepstakes. . . . She was formerly a Miss Mack, of Westchester. I haven't had time to look in the Blue Book. . . . The Robert Littells threw a party at their shack the other night to which, of course, came the literary—"The Litteligentsia?" . . . There is a booklet given free in most Times Square places which styles itself as New York's "official guide." . . . Izzatso? . . . Page 27 reveals a photo of Beatrice Lillie of, as it reports, "Band Wagon." . . . I always thought she was in "Old Man Murphy," which is at the Newsreel Theater.—R. C.

Comedy Film In Fulton, Sheridan

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Up Pops the Devil," a pleasant comedy with touches of smartness, is the new picture in both the Fulton and Sheridan Square.

It is a story of two young newlyweds and their efforts at making marriage a success. The husband aspires to be a novelist, and the wife wants his dreams to come true. So she goes to work and allows him to stay at home and devote his time to writing. But this doesn't work out so well. There are too many interruptions—the laundryman, neighbors, salesmen and friends who want a party.

Carole Lombard and Norman Foster portray the young couple. Skeets Gallagher helps with the laughter as a wise-cracking pal. Lilyan Tashman is present as a spunky girl of the press, and Stuart Erwin is a drinking fellow who wanders in and out of strangers' apartments.

The picture is based on the stage play of the same name, which, incidentally, was presented here by the George Sharp Players last season.

The film is interesting and light entertainment.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

DROP IN STEEL PRODUCTION SLOWS UP

Belief July Will Prove Low Month Strengthened; Present Demand Light

By B. E. V. LUTY

Steel production is decreasing at a slower and slower rate, for the official reports show the daily rate of ingot production decreased 10,427 tons from March to April, but only 8,346 tons April to May, percentage decreases being 9 per cent and 8 per cent respectively. Also, there has been little or no decrease this week from last, for both weeks may be estimated at approximately 40 per cent of capacity. The Chicago district lost a couple points, but the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts at least held their own.

Demand is so light that it does not make a great deal of difference just where the rate stands at a given time, but the trend is important as there is every reason to believe that July will be the low month, with subsequent improvement and it is an interesting point just how low July will be, as the improvement will run from that level. Chances remain that July will be a little under, rather than over 36 per cent, a rate used for comparison because it represents last December's production.

Steel companies have been economizing right along, but in view of present conditions and prospects they are redoubling their efforts along that line and introducing the most rigid economies. Wage reductions are not considered. In recent months various remarks have been made that perhaps the steel companies were simply biding their time, intending eventually to reduce wages, but there is no visible ground for any such thought. Some have reduced salaries more than once while others maintain salaries but reduce working forces to the number needed when there is less work to do and everybody is expected to work hard.

There is not much outlook in the way of steel prices. There have been few declines of late and there is little prospect of any advances. Some advances are talked of "for third quarter," but nothing more might occur than the writing of such contracts as customers would desire, the spot market running along over July 1 with no change, whereby such contracts at advanced prices would not be specified against. With no quotable change, no finished steel line seems weaker now than a week or a fortnight ago. There is little pressure on the market, for there are few large lots arising, orders being chiefly for small lots and very prompt shipment, whereby the buyer has neither the incentive nor the time to shop around.

Retiring President Aley pinning the president's badge on newly elected Mr. Mergler, fellow Cincinnati man, at the American Institute of Banking convention at the William Penn Hotel. Mr. Hall, St. Louis, was elected vice president. Mr. Stephenson, watching the little ceremony, was one of the convention speakers, is president of the parent American Bankers' Association.

DANCE CLOSES BANKERS' MEET

The annual farewell ball in the William Penn Hotel last night closed the twenty-ninth annual convention of the American Institute of Banking in session here this week.

The final business session was held in the Davis Theater yesterday morning at which speakers were Rome C. Stephenson president of the American Bankers Association, the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federal Council of Churches, and Ben Aley, of Denver, retiring president of the institute. In his address Stephenson declared the bottom of the business depression had been reached.

After the morning session delegates were taken by bus on a tour of the industrial districts.

Waverly Liquidation Plan Given Approval

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

CLASS A STOCKHOLDERS of the Waverly Oil Works Company yesterday replaced the former management with a new board of directors, ratified a plan for the payment of the company's indebtedness to the management and to banks and authorized the new board to liquidate the company at its own discretion.

The company owed $350,000 to T. J. Hilliard, former president, and H. R. Hilliard, former vice president. It also owed $200,000 to banks on notes guaranteed by the Hilliards.

The stockholders approved the transfer of 8,250 shares of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey common stock to the Hilliards in return for which they will cancel the company's indebtedness to them and will assume the $200,000 debt to the banks. In addition the Hilliards agreed to turn over the entire outstanding amount of 30,000 shares of Class B stock to the company. The B stock is the junior issue.

Proceeds From Station Sales

AFTER PAYING 8,250 SHARES of Standard Oil of New Jersey to the Hilliards, the company will have 4,750 shares left in its treasury. The stock was received as payment for the organization's filling stations which were sold to Standard of New Jersey a year ago.

In turning over a part of its holdings in Standard of New Jersey in settlement for $550,000 of debt, the company is realizing a price of $66.66 a share for its stock. This compares with a current market of about $35 a share.

The plan ratified yesterday replaced a similar proposal which was rejected at a previous meeting and which was not as advantageous to the company.

New Directors Elected

IN REPLACING THE MANAGEMENT, five new directors were elected. These were A. G. Boal, S. K. Cunningham, James A. Griffith, S. A. Taylor and F. W. Wappat. The directors retained from the former board were S. M. Vockel and C. M. Barr.

The new board of directors was given broad powers to dispose of any of the company's assets and to liquidate or to operate portions of the company's properties. The company owns refineries at Pittsburgh and Coraopolis.

The Class A stock consists of 40,000 shares on which cumulative dividends of $2 a year were $8.25 a share in arrears on April 1, 1931. A net loss of $142,440 was reported for the year ended April 30, 1930, and a loss of $16,707 was reported for the preceding year.

At the meeting 30,080 shares of the A stock were voted in favor of the agreement with the Hilliards and 1,125 voted against it.

It is understood that interests connected with the company are developing plans to take over some of the properties and to operate them.

RETAIL TRADE CONTINUES QUIET

Large Orders Reported Placed by Electrical Railroad Equipment

There has been no particular change in jobbing and retail trade circles this week, according to R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review. Business continued rather quiet and the greater portion of the buying at retail appeared to be of cheaper lines.

Jobbers of men's and women's wearing apparel report sales fairly numerous, but averaging small in amount. Shoe sales continue well below normal and prices are estimated to be averaging about 10 per cent lower than a year ago. Lumber and building materials are in slightly better demand, but they are not moving anywhere near normal volume, although some improvement is looked for later in the season.

There has been but little change in the output of electrical equipment, although some rather large orders have been reported placed recently for electrical railroad equipment.

Crude oil production is up slightly for the week, although production in the Pennsylvania fields was about 5 per cent lower in May than in April. A strike of miners in bituminous coal fields is checking production in this district, but the output apparently continues ample for the present low requirements. Prices continue practically unchanged.

Jobbers report no material change in collections, the average continuing slow.

Appointed Carpet Institute President

NEW YORK, June 13.—Herbert L. Gutterson, former executive secretary of the Republic National Committee, will become president of Institute of Carpet Manufacturers of America on July 1, according to an announcement by the board of trustees. Mr. Gutterson was the unanimous choice of the trustees to succeed Irving S. Paull, whose resignation becomes effective on that date.

Mr. Gutterson is a graduate of Williams College and the Harvard Law School. In addition to his general law practice since his graduation in 1908, Mr. Gutterson has had extensive executive and administrative work outside the legal profession.

Seasonal Trend in Glass Production

The slight increase noted last week in demand for window glass was being maintained during the week just ended, while in other branches of the flat glass industry virtually no change was shown in marketing conditions, according to American Glass Review. Both production and distribution, reflecting the trends in related industries, continue in light seasonal volume.

JACK'S RUN BRIDGE No. 2 carries the Ohio River Boulevard over the Jack's Run ravine, which is the dividing line between the City of Pittsburgh and Bellevue Boro. It is a concrete arch bridge 720 feet long and 200 feet high. The width of roadway between the curbs is 40 feet and it will carry two 9-foot sidewalks. This bridge is the largest and most expensive of the various bridges that were built in connection with the Ohio River Boulevard, having a clean span of about 379 feet.

The contract was awarded to the Booth & Flinn Company on July 12, 1929, as part of the Ohio River Boulevard contract. The bridge was completed during 1930, the source of funds being the 1928 Peoples Bond Issue. Its approximate cost was $433,423.00.

Aircraft Business Shows Good Gain

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce said that leaders in the aircraft manufacturing industry believe business is definitely on the upgrade and point to the encouraging increase in production and sales since the first of the year.

The compilation by the chamber shows that 491 commercial airplanes valued at $2,205,626 were produced in the first four months of 1931 against 703 worth $4,255,609 in a like period a year ago. While only 59 airplanes were produced in January, the number increased to 88 in February, 148 in March and 196 in April.

Federal Expenses Higher Than Income

WASHINGTON, June 13.—More than $1,500,000,000 will flow into and out of the treasury next Monday. But the government deficit still will be approximately $1,000,000,000.

The government has spent much more in the fiscal year ending June 30 than it has collected. Rapidly declining income taxes and customs duties, together with increasing expenses, sent the total expenditure of the government on June 10 to $3,948,209,025, while collections from all sources totaled only $2,856,145,335, leaving the government with a deficit of $1,092,063,690 on that date.

Another well in the Wayne field brought the number of producers in that area to 44. The one which came in yesterday was flowing at the rate of 2,500,000 cubic feet at a depth of 1,705 feet. It was 12 feet in the sands.

Pennsylvania Railroad In Better Shape Than In 1921-22

Interests who are close to the Pennsylvania Railroad situation contend that it is probable the first quarter will prove to be the worst period of the current year. They insist that it is too soon to say definitely that the road will not be able to cover the full $4 a share annual dividend requirements in the current 12 months because any improvement in traffic in the future will be reflected almost immediately in the revenues of the road. The point is made that the condition of the road, both physically and financially, is much better than it was in the 1921 and 1922 emergency period.

In the light of earnings for the first quarter and so far in the second quarter, directors of Chicago Great Western Railroad at their meeting June 15 are likely to declare another dividend on the 4 per cent preferred stock of 50 cents. Dividend of 50 cents on the preferred was paid in April, following one of $1 in January. Net income is currently running about even with a year ago.

The action of Alaska Juneau has been puzzling recently. Some interests were advising taking profits in the stock around 20 and this brought quite a supply into the market. The subsequent reaction attracted scale buying, but later a sharp attack was launched against the issue. The selling was credited to interests who had been working for one trader on the bear side of the market, but who turned bullish on the general list recently and sold the stock because this bear continued optimistic on Alaska Juneau.

Taking their cue from the action of the market itself, several observers of long experience are agreed in their conclusion that a relative measure of stability will probably characterize the price movement over the balance of the month. In fact the consensus in such quarters seems to be that the list may work to slightly higher levels over the next few weeks. Speculation, however, is expected to rule quiet with the market amounting to little more than a trading affair. For the time being at least the run-of-the-mine news from business and industry can hardly be expected to furnish much in the way of bullish ammunition. The seasonal trend is downward as the period of midsummer slack approaches, and in consequence it is generally conceded the market will do well if it weathers the storm of sour quarterly statements, which will have to be digested through July.

Brisk demand for International Telephone and Telegraph provided one of the features of yesterday's session in the utility list. The buying movement here was quite aggressive lifting the stock for a relatively smart gain notwithstanding the fact that earnings as reported for the March quarter fell somewhat short of fully covering dividend requirements for the period. Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend at Thursday's meeting presumably resulted in considerable covering inasmuch as the stock had been rather freely sold for a while in the belief that the dividend might be adjusted downward. Net profits for the March quarter were reported as $2,832,302, or roughly about $488,952 below indicated dividend requirements of around $3,321,254.

Appearance of the General Motors report, covering sales and shipments for May, seemed the signal for a run of realizing in the stock during yesterday. Results for the month were shown to have been distinctly satisfactory, with sales to dealers having run slightly ahead of the total for the same month last year. Estimates appeared during the day indicating that second quarter earnings of the corporation will run pretty close to those of the same period last year when net of $1.17 a share for the common was reported. Such a showing would bring net for the first half-year to roughly $1.80 a share, or about 20 per cent above dividend requirements for the period. It would mean the corporation will have to earn a balance of around $1.20 a share during the closing six months if it is to fully cover annual dividends calling for a total of $3 a share at the present rate.

RAILWAYS PUSH MERGER PLAN

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Final details of the plan for merging of eastern railroads into four great systems were discussed yesterday at a meeting of railroad executives in the offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

It is understood that early action will be sought on the proposal by the Interstate Commerce Commission as a measure that would release capital expenditures now held up by uncertainty over merger plans as well as permitting operating economies which would strengthen railway credit. It was reported the petition may be filed with the commission by the first of July.

One of the stumbling blocks to the consummation of merger plans has been the question of allowing the Pennsylvania trackage rights over the Nickel Plate between Ashtabula, O., and Brocton. It was submitted to a board of arbitration and a report is expected within a few days.

Business Defaults Decrease in Week

NEW YORK, June 13.—Commercial failures showed a sharp drop this week, the number in the United States for the six days, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co. being 474, the lowest for a full week than for any similar period since early in October. In the short week preceding, covering only five business days, 454 defaults were recorded, while two weeks ago, covering six days, the number was 528. For the corresponding period last year the number was 489.

Consider Posting Flat Price On Oil

AUSTIN, Tex., June 13.—Several of the major purchasers of crude oil in the Kilgore, Joiner and Longview areas of East Texas are considering posting a flat price of 15 cents a barrel for crude oil in those areas. At present there are no posted prices in these fields, and oil being taken from the area is bought on a competitive basis, some for as low as 12 cents a barrel.

FIRMS FIGHTING DEPRESSION SHOW GAIN

Aggressive Managers Buck Trend With Increased Advertising, Sales Efforts

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 13.

Too many persons, lacking in ambition and resourcefulness, use hard times as an alibi for their own shortcomings.

Unquestionably, a major depression handicaps virtually all executives and defeats many plans for forward development. Yet the job of management is to fight conditions, not to complain about them.

New York merchants, who have redoubled their advertising and selling efforts, report gains in volume thus far in June. A local candy chain, under aggressive new management, reported 93 per cent increase in sales for the month of May; 31 percent increase in the number of customers during the month, and 69 per cent increase in sales for the first five months of the year. Like many of the other exceptional companies which have been bucking the trend, this company is a forceful user of printers' ink on a large scale. Advertising itself, however, is not enough. Behind advertising there must be efficiency and good taste in the selection of merchandise.

Mr. Rukeyser

Thomas B. McCabe, president of the Scott Paper Company, whose company showed gains in profits in 1930 and again thus far in 1931, told me that:

"A period of depression is not a legitimate excuse for failure. It is an unusual condition which must be anticipated and met as courageously as an army meets its Valley Forge or an athletic team meets accidents, sickness and rainy days and a slippery ball."

Maker of the standardized tissue paper products, McCabe's company has increased its volume from $2,500,000 in 1926 to $8,642,000 in 1930. The dollar volume this year has been running 9 per cent ahead of last.

In connection with the decision of railway executives to ask for a 15 per cent freight rate increase, a spokesman for one of the leading life insurance companies, which has more than a fifth of its resources invested in railroad bonds, remarked to me:

"Generally speaking, the Interstate Commerce Commission either through lack of authority or through inability to agree, has with very few exceptions rejected suggestion after suggestion made by the carriers.

"I do not think that the fundamental difficulty lies in wages that are too high or rates that are too low, rather, that our companies are hampered by uncertainty as to what to expect from authorities and by competition that is unrestricted and does not pay its fair share."

St. Louis Intervenes In Rail Purchase

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The city of St. Louis has recommended to the Interstate Commerce Commission that it approve the application of the Southern Pacific Company to acquire control of the St. Louis-Southwestern railway.

In a petition asking leave to intervene on behalf of the city, Acting Mayor Walter J. G. Neun and City Councilor Julius T. Muench told the commission St. Louis believed the approval would "further the public interest."

Oil City Firm Buys Rotary Pump Rights

FETE TO MARK ARMY UNIT DATE

The newly-organized Pittsburgh Chapter of the Quartermaster Association will celebrate the one hundred and fifty-sixth anniversary of the birth of the Quartermaster Corps of the United States Army with a dinner Tuesday night in McCann's cafeteria, Diamond and Market streets.

The occasion will be observed by all officers and enlisted men of the corps in almost every large city in the country. The corps, the largest organization of the Army, is affiliated with the Regular Army, the National Guard and organized reserves.

The local chapter was organized Tuesday, with a membership list which includes men in all lines of business. The majority of the members are affiliated with the 99th Division, the reserve unit assigned to Western Pennsylvania.

SAYS RAILROADS FEAR POLITICS

WASHINGTON, June 13.—M. W. Clement, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said that political restrictions, rather than economic, are feared by the carriers. He said:

"The only restrictions that can possibly impede the future progress of the rails in American transportation are political and not economic."

Restrictions as to car size and train size, and legislation which bars the railways from engaging in waterway transportation and prevents them from applying to rail-waterway transportation the advantages of co-ordinated service which they are applying to rail-motor transportation, he added, were not needed.

Stockholders Set Subscription Record

NEW YORK, June 13.—Pacific Gas and Electric Company stockholders established a record in taking up new rights to purchase new stock issued by the company at the last offering. Books recently closed showed the offering of total par value of $14,185,550 was 99.77 per cent subscribed.

Conneautville Bank Names New Head

CONNEAUTVILLE, Pa., June 13.—Dr. Harry C. Winslow, well-known Meadville physician and surgeon, has been elected president of the First National Bank of Conneautville, succeeding C. H. Thompson.

CONGOLEUM ON PROFITABLE BASIS

Low Inventory Indicates More Favorable Earnings Following Sharp Write-off

NEW YORK, June 13.—Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., has developed a new Sealex product designed to be used as a wall covering in bathrooms and in kitchens, and an extensive sales campaign is planned for the near future. One of the problems of the linoleum industry has been the existing excess capacity and any new use that would materially increase consumption eventually should add considerably to profits.

The management has been concentrating for years on plans for increasing yardage and believes that the wall covering field offers important opportunities particularly in view of the trend toward color in home decoration.

RAW MATERIALS LOW

The company now is operating at a profit and its inventory position indicates a good prospect for earnings this year. Inventories both of raw materials and finished goods are the lowest on record both in volume and in dollars. Raw materials, principally cork and linseed oil, are at the lowest prices they have ever sold and are carried at bottom prices, so that it should be possible to show a manufacturing profit on merchandise sold. There are no contracts on hand for the purchase of raw materials at high prices.

STRONG IN CASH

Congoleum's always strong cash position now exceeds the $7,939,387 cash and government bonds on hand December 31, 1930, after expenditures for purchase of additional common stock.

Net profit in the first half of 1930 was $705,857, equal to 40 cents a share on the 1,641,026 common shares. Severe price reductions and inventory adjustments in the last half necessitated write-offs which reduced profit for the year to $208,839, equal to 8 cents a share on 1,414,351 common shares outstanding at the end of the year. In 1929 net profit was $2,213,830 or $1.28 a share and in 1928 $1,462,046, or 82 cents a share.

FRENCH MOTOR BUYING OFF

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The French market for imported automobiles in all price classes did not show the improvement expected of it during the first quarter of the year.

The Commerce Department said that while there was as part of the general slump, a decline in sales of all classes of American cars, the medium and high priced classes were far more affected than low priced models. Stocks of American cars were kept as low as possible, and in only one or two cases in the medium priced field did dealers have comparatively high stocks.

Practically all the American trucks sold during the quarter were low-capacity units. While dealers of American low priced trucks expect a falling off in sales during 1931, it is the opinion of most of them that the American light truck has a greater comparative future in France for the rest of the year than the American passenger car.

TIRE BUSINESS IMPROVING STATUS

Trade Making Progress In Move to Eliminate Unsound Merchandising

NEW YORK, June 13.—Definite and rapid progress has been made recently in re-establishing the tire trade on a sound and equitable merchandising basis. It has resulted from conferences attended by sales representatives of the leading companies in the field, as well as by bankers affiliated with the industry.

The outcome has been the elimination of numerous trade practices which have complicated tire operations in recent years. Certain classes of volume business, principally national and fleet accounts, still are under contract at the unsatisfactory prices written last year, of course, and will continue so until October or the end of 1931.

MORE REVENUE SEEN

The commercial accounts and individual consumer trade, however, have been raised from the severely competitive state prevailing during the past year and should become a better source of revenue to both the dealer and the manufacturer.

When the large companies are free of the unsatisfactory national and fleet contracts, trade interests believe that extensive progress will have been made toward a general re-establishment of fair earning power in the industry.

For some years, competitive practices which have been considered unfair by trade authorities have been prevalent in the industry and culminated last year in a severe price war.

BANKERS BACK MOVE

The recent conference for alleviation of these practices are understood to have been held largely at the instance of banking interests with substantial investments in the industry.

The definite steps taken by the leaders in the industry to restore a better market in tires already have resulted in bettering the companies' operating positions this year in spite of the continued low volume of sales.

WILL GRADUATE RECORD CLASS

If business training is really the best panacea for a depression, as so many authorities have stated, then Pittsburgh School of Accountancy in September will do its share toward remedying business ills by graduating the largest class in the history of the evening division.

Present indications point toward a graduating class of more than 90 young men, of whom about a third are from Pittsburgh proper. The following local students are candidates: G. E. Billet, C. T. Boehm, R. C. Boley, D. G. Brown, Charles Bryant, John Cadugan, H. E. Carson, Clyde Cornelius, V. A. DiPerna, Howard Ehni, Zell Fein, C. C. Fitzsimmons, A. H. Geisler, Earl Gotthold, R. P. Graham, Benjamin Halpern, G. B. Hart, E. B. Hungerman, W. E. Hurd, W. A. Johnson, R. E. Johnson, Russel Jones, Walter Jones, B. D. Kelley, R. J. Kister, Fred Klein, W. P. McKee, J. R. Niclas, J. L. Richards, J. F. Sauerberger, S. Shawickey, Martin Seder, C. J. Sperline, and Kenneth Swanson.

A Critical Stage in News

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

We're passing out of the spring news stage and going in for our light summer events.

But let's see what the balmy weather of April and May did to current information.

Chicago judge gave Illinois citizen exactly 96 years to pay his back alimony.

Ninety-six years is hardly a probationary period. If a man can't make good in that time he is certainly a caddy to a delinquent student.

This happened in April and followed the blighting of the Delaware peach crop. Some people think it actually was the cause of the blight.

In May two distinguished scientists sardined themselves into a hermetically sealed tin ball, yanked a cord and sailed 10 miles into the air. They landed in the Tyrolean Alps, were welcomed by a mayor's committee of Swiss echoes and will be awarded first dab at Vermont's 1932 maple syrup run.

New York inaugurated a new political job of watching the smoke come out of chimneys. This is strictly spring fever politics. As there is no bookkeeping on this job we can guarantee there will be no smoke deficit for the fiscal year.

A New Jersey woman killed her husband while playing bridge and was exonerated by a jury which tried to learn the game in 12 easy lessons.

A Harvard student went over Niagara Falls in a paper bag which made him the most popular man in his class. King Alfonso left Madrid so rapidly he forgot his old Aunt Isabella. She joined him in Paris. Then Alfonso left for London and nobody knows whether he was fleeing from the revolutionists or his pool old aunt.

Isabella passed away peacefully before we could solve the puzzle and meanwhile Capt. Hawks solved the cooking question by eating breakfast in London, lunch in Berlin and dinner in Paris, all in one day. This would be perfect if finished by a parachute jump into a health resort.

All of which proves that people do queerer things in springtime than in the summer. And the reason why we are nearly normal in winter is that the police can track you by your footprints in the snow.

ERNO RAPEE PROMOTED AT N.B.C.

WE NOW PRESENT
By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor

Erno Rapee, known to millions as conductor of the Roxy Symphony Orchestra, becomes general musical director of the National Broadcasting Company on Monday. The man who came to America 15 years ago a famished immigrant and who later through his musical genius elevated motion picture entertainment from the tinkling piano days of the nickelodeon to the great symphonic synchronizations heard in the movie palaces today, is to have charge of all musical broadcasts from NBC. Rapee, a Hungarian, born in Budapest in 1891, had charge of musical synchronization for the motion pictures "What Price Glory," "Seventh Heaven," "Charmaine" and "Street Angel." Appointment of Rapee to this influential post in American music is attributed to John Royal, program manager of NBC. Hear Rapee conduct the symphony orchestra in Ponchielli's "Dance of the Hours" over WCAE at 9 o'clock tonight.

Scoop! The Boswell Sisters—Connie, Martha and Vet—have flown the NBC coop for an exclusive contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System. Starting June 18 the girls are to be heard at 9:15 every Thursday and 7:45 every Sunday. Right now they are visiting the old folks in New Orleans.

When those CBS boys see something good, they go right out and buy it!

Question a Day:

Is it possible to see television pictures in Pittsburgh, and what is the meaning of the word "television"?—Harriet D. Verona.

Answer—Yes, television pictures from KDKA are picked up regularly as well as pictures from the Jenkins stations in Camden, N. J. and Washington, D. C. But we venture there are not a dozen television sets in this area outside of the experimental sets owned by Westinghouse.

Literally, "television" means vision at a distance. The word is composite, being derived from a mixture of Greek and Latin; Tele "at a distance" and the verb Video "I see."

* * *

Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of NBC, told us at Chicago that he considered television still much an experiment. But in the same breath he added that NBC has prepared to install television transmitters atop a 50-story building in New York, and another in Los Angeles.

Hollis Baird, of WIXAV, at Boston, was successful in selling a television transmitter to WCFL at Chicago during the Radio Show this week and confided to us that he is negotiating to sell television to two Pittsburgh stations. A television transmitter in its present development costs from $12,000 to $25,000.

* * *

You will be both amazed and disappointed when you see television for the first time. Amazed that such a feat is possible, and disappointed with the scanning disk lines which mar the image. You will see many television kits for sale in Pittsburgh this winter.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 13.—About the magic world of the microphone there is something of the breath-taking atmosphere of the days when the talkies rushed into Hollywood.

The radio is today in America, among all fields of entertainment, the most promising road to independence. It is the new eldorado of amusements, assuring vast rewards for a minimum of time and labor.

Next to the titans of the talkies the broadcasters possess the bulkiest wallets in the amusement world. They are continuously unstrapping them that 50,000,000 listeners may be pleased.

Their banknotes seem to be limitless. They think nothing of offering sums that range from $2,500 to $25,000 for a few minutes of broadcasting, for a brief and gaudy catching of the ears of the country. It is one of the rarest spectacles of shooting-the-bankroll that the country has ever witnessed. And the shooting continues. There is no depression in the counting houses of the radio barons.

* * *

And maybe the army of the microphone is not aware of it. Its officers are asking—and receiving—facts that make those of the theater battalions seem like the wages of educators. And the high privates—expert musicians in studio orchestras—are garnering weekly stipends that would have staggered a Toscanini 20 years ago. A thousand dollars a week is nothing to an honest-to-Broadway husle-blower or saxtooter.

* * *

Broadcasters, alert—too alert, if you ask me—to the fireside appeal of a big name, scour the world for talent, their pockets bulging with gold certificates and contracts. Their search rests most often at the gates of Hollywood. They appear to believe that the chief entertainment in the land lies in the people of the screen. They have paid the majority of their largest fees to those stars temporarily, if not permanently, located in the Hollywood heavens.

They have dug deeply into their black bags and come up smiling with a fortune in gold to M. Chevalier, Massa Jolson, Will Rogers, Lawrence Tibbett. The films made these names famous at every crossroads of the land. Radio has capitalized upon their fame, extended it even further, made their personalities known wherever the ether waves penetrate. And are the stars downhearted?

* * *

The grand dukes of the camera aren't the only ones who have their eyes on the microphone. The whole entertainment world has turned its gaze to radio—to radio and its son and heir, television. Radio today has about it the glamour of big business. It has become an industrial giant, capturing the services of outstanding capitalists and scientists.

Despondent Ladies Usually Lacking Attention

Why do nervous ladies get that way?

Why do they lose their pep and ambition?—

And just sit around "feeling low"—and looking lower.

Unable to do a lap of work ... Just getting bluer 'n' bluer.

Although the doctors can't find a thing the matter with them?

Is it because they're really sick?—

MOTHER IS NERVOUS

Or it is because they have what ails Lorraine?

What does ail Lorraine? Read on—and judge for yourself.

Dear Miss Martin:

Maybe you'll think my problem doesn't belong in your column, but I've got to have help from somewhere, so I'm coming to you anyway in the hope that you'll at least tell me what you think.

You see, nearly a year ago I had a baby. And ever since then I haven't been well. I can't even take care of him as well as I should. It wasn't that I didn't want him, and it isn't that I don't love him dearly. But it's just that I feel so "low" all the time. I don't know whether the shock of his birth was too much, or what. But it seems as if I were just in a trance. Nothing interests me any more. I don't seem to have any pep. I can't seem to care what happens.

I have tried all the best doctors, and they can't seem to find what's wrong with me. They say there's no organic trouble, but that I am suffering from "nervousness," and that it ought to pass soon. But I am getting desperate. I am getting terribly despondent. Life is a terrible bore, when I'm like this.

SHOULD BE HAPPY

Doctors can't seem to help me. They tell me to "go out in the air," but I haven't enough ambition to do even that. All I do is sit around all day, dirty and careless and almost frantic, thinking of my condition. I can't concentrate on anything. I don't even enjoy music or a show. I used to be so happy and carefree. I enjoyed everything in life. Now, I have everything in the world that should make me happy—my baby, a wonderful husband, a nice home—but I can't shake off that terrible feeling that I have.

Please help me if you can. I'm desperate. What's wrong?

LORRAINE

What's wrong? Honestly, want to know? Then get ready for, you're going to get a shock ...

There isn't a thing wrong, except, Lorraine. Yep. I mean it, seriously. In spite of your protests and your wails you do not want ... down in your secret heart ... to be well and strong. Hurts? Sure, it hurts, and makes you plenty mad. But it's the truth. What you really do want is attention. And before baby came, you got it—heaps of it, from your husband and your friends and your doctor. You held the center of the stage. All your little illnesses were dramatized, made much of. But now the big show is over, and you're out of the spotlight. But all that sympathy and solicitude you received from everyone seemed so sweet. You didn't—and don't—want to give it up.

PUTTING ON A SHOW

So you're trying, unconsciously perhaps, but none the less surely, to give yourself Nuisance Value ... to get yourself petted and fussed over ... to hold the center of the stage once more.

And that's what ails nine-tenths of the other "nervous" people in the world, sister. They're putting on a show ... whether they realize it or not—to get something they want.

Come to life! Give the doctors and your husband and that little new life you're responsible for—and yourself—a square deal! It's up to you, whether you're in misery, or come into the sunshine of living once more. Stop being a quitter! And do it now! The only cure for your laziness is action! Pick yourself up and get going! Then you won't have time to moon over your imaginary "nervousness." Stop earning the ridicule of your friends, the contempt of your doctor and the disgust of your husband. Show 'em you can be regular!

Submarine

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"HI-HO! THE FIRST GUEST OF THE SEASON!"

Down below in her bed of shell and sea weed, the cold, cold lady of the sea is stretching her pale green arms and yawning. The opening of the season is almost here. Down in the cold gloom she has slept and lazed and yawned, after reading every last one of the magazines and books that have fallen overboard from liners far above. She fell asleep over the last Biography and the last poor repetition of every Mystery Thriller that had gone before. And the wild green sea raved over head and tossed the tweed clad gentlemen about in their berths. Those winter travelers, too timid to venture overboard then unless they were life weary and craved the mermaids' arm for ever!

Her sea green hair waved in the gentle last spent wave. And her finny tail was limp. The Siren slept.

But now June is here. The first motor boats are popping overhead, their hulls shadowed in the new summer sun rays. The shadows of them are falling on the Siren's eyelids. And lo! Above her waves the five toes of the first summer guest of the sea!

Time to get out the golden comb and hie her to the rocks!

I've heard men yearn to see the fabled Mermaid. I've had a shamed belief that maybe some day I myself might have that awful and faery sight burst upon my idle gaze while I leant upon a steamer rail.

But I wonder if a man really would stay or RUN, if this pale green Sea Lady with the emerald eyes SHOULD rise to the surface and take after him, lashing her mackerel tail?

'Ware the Sea Lady. She's waking for the season.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

Announcing an Adoption

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are adopting a little boy 2½ years old. We will get the final papers in about two months. I would like to know how to let our friends and relatives know. Would it be proper to send announcements, or should I just write a note, and how soon should I send such notes?

If the announcements are correct, will you please make out a form for us, as my husband is a printer and he will print them. J. O.

When you get the final papers, I think that it will be more charming if you write notes to your friends whom you wish to have know of the adoption. The birth-announcements, while it is true they are sometimes used to announce an adoption, still, as I am sure you will agree, seem more appropriate and consistent for use for usual birth announcement occasions.

Your note might read something like this:

Dear Mary:

I know that you will be happy to learn ... as we are indeed most happy to tell ... that Tom and I have adopted a wonderful little boy. We have had him with us for a few weeks, and have just received the final papers that make him part of our family. He is 2½ years old, and such a fine little fellow, and so lovable, that I am sure that you and he are going to be great friends.

His name is Joseph, and I am sure that he will live up to all the fine traditions of that good old name.

Of course, Tom and I earnestly desire you and Theodore to come to see our treasure.

Best love and dearest greetings to you both, from—three of us.

Lovingly yours.

Such a Ridiculous Reply

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me which is right? "A" says it is quite correct to say "likewise" in returning an Easter greeting. "B" says this is very wrong, and should never be used in returning any greeting. Would "Thank you, I wish you the same" be proper? MRS. C.

"B" is so right, and "A" is so wrong! Perhaps the reason why I am especially vehement about this is that the reply of "likewise" to a greeting or a wish is my pet abomination in language. It is such a ridiculous reply, so meaningless, and inevitably it stamps one as not knowing "what's what." It just mustn't be said by anyone who wishes to have any social standing, for it is not only ridiculous in itself but suggests non-understanding of greetings between friends. I sincerely hope that "A" casts it forever from her life, used in this way.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

A letter from a mere man in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., asks me why on earth I don't write about the women who spend each year thousands of dollars more than their husbands earn, thereby being the cause of much crookedness in business, by men who love them and try to make the "financial grade" with them.

He cites the instance of a Pennsylvania man who jumped off a high place a few years ago, and he says he is another who must either do that or go into bankruptcy because of his wife's criminal extravagance.

What's the matter with you men? Can't you run your homes? Are you afraid of your women? Fancy a man permitting a woman to ruin him by her silly extravagances! I know they do it, in New York more than any other city in the world. But it's the men who are to blame for letting their wives get away with it.

What to do?

Well you make the money don't you? Have you a joint bank account?

Change that today. She has forfeited her right to one.

Give her an allowance. Stop all charge accounts. Make her pay for what she buys with the money you give her, and make her save from that fund for any silly extravagances that you can't afford.

Then, pray tell me, HOW CAN she ruin you?

The trouble with American men is, they are such unrivaled SAPS. They want to give the little woman everything her heart desires. If they don't, the smart American wife says that other women's husbands are so good to them—give them everything—and, oh dear, when will the family bank account be big enough for her to get what SHE wants. And the husband feels wholly inadequate and comes through like a lamb. A FOOL lamb. He gives and gives till it hurts, and then she, having plenty of shopping time, soon finds that it isn't enough, so she opens charge accounts and thinks she will pay next month; the difference between what she has and what she owes.

Then the stores write and say to her, "What may we expect in this matter?" And she doesn't want hubby to see the letter and tears it up. She isn't going to get all wrinkled worrying.

Husband knows she is going beyond bonds, because he finally gets wind of the stacks of bills she owes. Runs upon them in her desk, maybe.

Instead of taking her by the arm, firmly, leading her to a chair. Putting her in it and walking up and down lecturing to her, he weakens at the first snival and then—bing goes all good resolutions.

It's true there is no husband like an American husband.

Men like you are wrecking their homes. Eventually everything goes to ruin. A word in time would have saved a man's final leap or his appearance in a bankruptcy court. IF only he had the courage to say the word!

When a man is in love—he can't seem to look into the depths of a pretty woman's eyes and tell her NO.

Then when the reckoning comes, he blames her.

I'll bet many a wife could crown me for writing this. But it's all so true!

If I'm wrong, write me, care Universal Service, 63 Park Row, New York City).

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Eyes reflect the mental condition, also the condition of the health. Animation and a sense of well-being, of zip and zest, put sparkle in the soul lanterns. The beauty of the eyes is almost entirely in the expression. Eyes that are cold and cruel have no charm, no matter how lovely their coloring may be. Stupid, dull eyes fail to attract. Wonderful the stories that eyes tell! If one knows how to read them.

Cold water doesn't do a thing to dirt, and that is why the cold bath is not a cleanser. Only soap, warm water and friction with a brush will remove dead cells from the skin surface, do away with dust and the film of oil that is sent out by sebaceous glands. The cold bath is an invigorating pick-up treatment, and that's the best one can say for it.

Tiny elongated warts that sometimes appear on the neck can be removed by the proper treatment. Nobody knows why these pests appear. They are likely to become irritated through contact with wash cloths and towels, so it is better to be rid of them.

Mineral oil, olive oil or a mixture of equal parts of castor oil and alcohol will loosen dandruff so that the shampoo will remove it. Not much good unless it remains on the scalp over night. Dandruff should be fought tooth and nail, not because it is in itself a special danger, but because it forms a fine lodging house for germs and germesses that create diseases of the scalp.

Perfumes should be subtle and mysterious, yet sufficiently perceptible to inspire a long, deep breath. Not all perfumes are mixtures of floretted oils; many are composed of synthetic scents which, strange to say, are almost as expensive as those extracted from the flowers of field and garden. Sales of perfume increase each year.

Fatted calves can be stretched and twisted to slender proportions. Get down on the floor on all fours. Lift a leg stretch upward and backward or toward the side. The higher up the toes go, the stronger and harder will be the pull that sends fat cells flying.

Love's Reawakening

Two Momentous Events Usher in Christmas Day for Madge

There was that in Dicky's voice as he handed me the letter from his sister, Harriet, which warned me that it held something of serious import to us. I had not realized how nervously fatigued I was with the preparations for the Christmas holidays until, as I reached my hand for the letter, I found that I neither could see it nor Dicky's face. The room seemed whirling with me? I had no more vision than if I had been in a darkened room, and I closed my eyes with the feeling that I would slump to the ground in another second or two if I could not pull myself together. Fortunately Dicky's hand had met mine when he gave me the letter and my fingers closed upon it mechanically so that it did not fall to the floor. He must have turned away and walked to the window when he had handed over the letter, for when, after a few seconds, the dizziness passed and I opened my eyes, he was standing by the window looking out, and patently had not noticed anything unusual in my face or actions.

I pulled myself together and read the superscription:

"Dearest Richard and Margaret" it began. "No one can help me, save you two, so I am appealing to you, the best brother and sister in the world."

There was a sudden warm glow at my heart, despite the natural fear for her which her words brought. Not always would Harriet Braithwaite have included me in any appeal to her brother for aid. We had been close friends for years, but I could remember the humiliations of my early married life when my mother-in-law and her two daughters had treated me as an interloper. Queer that the years should have brought me to a point where both the mother and daughter of dead Elizabeth Harrison counted me as the woman closest to them, and where Harriet was appealing to me for help in some problem which I knew the next few sentences of her letter must explain.

"I could not explain in the telegram," I read on, "for I could leave Edwin but a few seconds at a time, but now I can tell you that he has had a severe and terrifying breakdown, physical and mental, and I must take him away for a year at least, where there is nothing to remind him of his work, and nothing to disturb him. I am closing the house and taking him away almost at once."

I looked up in shocked amazement. Did this mean that the boys?—But Dicky was still gazing out of the window, and I returned to the letter.

"Of course that means that I must make some provision for the boys. The first thing, of course, was to get them away, and I am so grateful to you for taking them for the holidays. Fortunately the money which Edwin set aside for them is in my charge, and Dicky is coguardian of their father's property so there will be no question of money.

"We were planning to send the two older boys to preparatory school next fall, and they are wild to go, so if you can arrange for them to enter at midyear instead their problem will be settled. I saw to it that their trunks contained all their possessions good enough to take to school. There is plenty of money for their other requirements, new clothing, room equipment, etc., but such preparation entails a great amount of work and I am so sorry to inflict it upon Margaret with all her cares. However, I am desperate.

"I am so distraught about Roderick. I suppose he can go to school with his brothers, some boys go away that young, but he is so little. However, you must use your best judgment, for I have none left. Do as you think best and wire me your decision. When I leave here, it will be hard to get me, but I shall try to advise you from time to time how to reach me. The physicians hope much for Edwin from this journey, and this is all that matters now.

"Your distracted sister,

HARRIET."

I folded the letter and spoke quietly to Dicky standing in the window.

"I've read it through, Dicky."

He whirled and came over to me.

"Well! shall we send Roderick to school with the older ones?" he asked and his quizzical smile lifted a weight from my heart, although I ought to have known my husband's tender, protecting love for children too well to doubt his decision even for an instant.

"Over my dead body," I answered, smiling back at him. "He stays right here with Junior who will believe in fairies if he finds out his wish has come true so soon."

"Better not tell him or the others yet," Dicky counseled wisely. "It would only upset their holidays, even if they welcomed the new arrangement, which I am inclined to think they will. There's one good thing, midyear isn't until February, so you'll have a breathing spell before they're outfitted for school. But it will be hard enough on you anyway with them here for that time. Do you know you're a thoroughbred, and a mighty good scout, though that's rank redundancy?"

He was bending over me, tenderly, his face close to mine, when we heard Marion's voice caroling, "Auntie Madge, where are you? Here are Ronald and Carolyn!"

"I might as well live under the blue laws," Dicky grumbled, when they put you in the stocks for kissing your wife. But I suppose 'youth must be served.'"

He opened the door and the three young people came in, Ronald and Carolyn looking rather uncertain as if they were not quite sure of their reception. But Marion had a purposeful look.

"May I see you a minute all by yourself, Auntie Madge?" she asked. "Ronald, you take Uncle Dicky out and talk to him, and Carol, you tackle mother. I'll take care of Dad later. He'll do whatever mother likes, anyway."

She gave the effect of "shooing" them all out of the room, and when they had gone she turned to me.

"What they're talking about can wait," she said hurriedly. "I don't need to see you alone for that. But I do want to ask you ——" she hesitated oddly—then appeared to gather courage—"Will you please get me that box I gave you to put away for me, my grandmother's lock box, you know with the secret drawer and my 'fortune' in it?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Protect Your Child by Diptheria Test

Tremendous strides have been made in our understanding of diphtheria. Now it is possible to check the spread of diphtheria, as well as to treat effectively the individual case.

Dr. Copeland

The defensive mechanism of the body which guards against diphtheria, as well as other diseases, depends upon the presence in the blood stream of certain substances, known as "antibodies." When these substances are present, the body possesses the ability to ward off diseases. This power is spoken of as "immunity."

If the Schick test is positive, it means that if exposed to diphtheria, the individual will contract the disease.

Not every one exposed to diphtheria will contract the disease. This is because such persons have developed immunity. This is a matter of great importance in children. Children do not possess the immunity to disease such as adults. It is far simpler to have a Schick test made than to expose the child to the possibility of contracting the ailment.

The test is a simple procedure and painless. It affords a means of protection that should not be overlooked. No child should be denied it.

If your child has been vaccinated he should also be "Schicked." If no vaccination has been performed, please have this done at once, and at the same time, inquire about the Schick test.

Diphtheria could be completely eradicated if all children were immunized. The treatment is given when the baby is three months old. The usual method involves the injection of three doses of toxin anti-toxin over weekly intervals.

It is sometimes necessary to have the injection repeated. Babies effectively treated with toxin anti-toxin will not get diphtheria.

Answers to Health Queries

L. T. Q.—I am a man of 46 and have been operated on for a gastric ulcer. I felt fine after the operation, but seem to have similar symptoms again—what would you advise?

A.—Your present trouble is probably due to hyperacidity. Watch your diet and keep your bowels open. Avoid excessive sweets and rich, heavy foods and keep the system in proper working order.

* * *

Mrs. M. F. A. Q.—What will eradicate pimples?

A.—Careful attention to the diet and elimination should not only clear the complexion, but benefit the system in general.

* * *

M. C. C. Q.—How much should a girl of 13, 5 feet 1¼ inches tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 107 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is of little or no consequence.

Household Hints

Don't guard against a draught that only lasts a minute. You are bound to be in them at times and if totally unused to a draught it is almost certain to mean trouble.

When washing greasy dishes or pans, add a few drops of ammonia to the water and stop using washing soda for this purpose. Soda is hard on both dishes and hands and is too strong for this more delicate work.

When next you mend gloves, slip a thimble on your finger and then put the glove to be mended over it. It will act as a darning ball and avoid sticking your fingers and getting the gloves out of shape.

ROBIN SKIPPER AGAIN STORM CENTER

THOUGH THE ROBINS pulled themselves together yesterday and grabbed their first victory in the Cincinnati series behind the shutout pitching of Watson Clark, their poor showing on the western trip thus far, with their continued failure to live up to what they promised on paper in the spring, has made Manager Wilbert Robinson the target of stronger criticism than ever. Not content with the prospect that the clubowners will drop Robbie next fall, some of the irate fans and critics of Flatbush are demanding that the portly pilot be paid off for the remainder of the season and replaced without further delay.

Wilbert Robinson

It was thought that the Robins, packing as much power as they do, would get going on the present trip and swing into a winning stride, but on the contrary they appear to have gone from bad to worse. Of the 11 games played in the West up to date they won only four. Five of their last seven games were defeats, and at no stage of the trip have they won two games in succession.

ROBINSON HAS MADE the situation more acute by turning on the newspapers of Brooklyn and New York and hurling verbal brickbats in the direction of the baseball writers who are covering the western trip of the Robins. He resents being blamed for all the shortcomings of the club and charges that much of the criticism aimed at him is unfair.

"I have only 19 enemies in the world, and they are all newspapermen," wails Robbie. "Some of them are trying to run the team through their columns. I wish they would come down on the field and try out some of their theories. They would find that it is much easer to pound a typewriter than to get results from a team of temperamental ball players."

INSTEAD OF FATTENING up their percentage column during their first long stay at home, the Pirates have only lost additional ground. Against the eastern clubs they have won but four games against five defeats, and they have dropped eight out of 12 home games since they returned to their own park.

George Grantham's batting and base-running worth do not offset his fielding weaknesses as long as he is kept at second base, and bringing Tommy Thevenow back into the lineup only served to weaken further the already unsatisfactory attack. Thevenow has not made a hit in his last 11 games, and in the last 22 games in which he participated he batted safely in only four.

THANKS TO THE Braves, the Cardinals have lost three games in succession for the first time this year, and the National League race has been made a close and open one again in consequence. The lead of the Redbirds has been cut to two and a half games over the Giants and Cubs, who are tied for second place, and Boston, the fourth club in the standing, is only six games behind the leaders. In the American League there are 12 games between the first and fourth clubs. And if the Pirates and Robins had shown a suggestion of the strength which they appear to own on paper, there would now be six clubs instead of four closely bunched in the National League scramble.

W. Don Harrison

FOOTBALL MATTERS MAY be slightly out of season, but when it comes to getting a ticket to a game at which standing room is bound to be at premium at playing time, the wise fan will stir himself months ahead. In this connection, W. Don Harrison, director of athletics at Pitt, is concerned about the interests of local gridiron followers with relation to the Army game at the Stadium November 14.

Director Harrison reports that already there is a tremendous list of advance orders for this game, 30,000 ticket applications having been received. But the great majority of them came from out of town, and the Pitt chief wants to save the home fans from making the mistake of waiting until the choicest seats have been gobbled up. So he urges them to send in their orders to him at once at the Stadium, enclosing check or money order.

IN ALL 70,000 SEATS will be available, 63,000 in the regular Stadium plan and 7,000 in the temporary stands along the sidelines and at the ends of the playing field. Every seat in the concrete and in the special sideline stands will be reserved, the price of box seats being $5 each and of other reserved seats $4 each.

For the benefit of those who cannot afford to pay the higher prices, 3,000 temporary seats at $2 each will be placed at the ends of the field. No allotment of tickets will be made until August 1, as Director Harrison wishes to give all fans a chance to get their orders in so that he can make as wide and as equitable a distribution of seats as possible. The pasteboards will not be mailed out until the middle of October. It is expected that a capacity crowd will witness the first appearance of the famous Army team and Cadet corps in Pittsburgh, the greatest football spectacle in the city's history.

IN THEIR THREE games here the Giants have strengthened the original impression of Pittsburgh fans that they are the best club in the National League outside the box. Only wobbly pitching has caused them to skid at times. With steady hurling, the McGrawmen could hardly be prevented from winning the pennant. One real slab ace would give them a fine chance, and in this connection it will not be surprising if McGraw, following his arrival in Cincinnati tomorrow, tries to swing a deal for Red Lucas before the trading period closes Monday night.

WHETHER TWENTY GRAND, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Wood Memorial, but beaten in the Preakness, is to go right on to the 3-year-old championship, as Gallant Fox did last season, or step aside for a better horse, will be determined at Belmont Park in New York this afternoon.

In the sixty-third running of the rich Belmont Stakes, Twenty Grand will encounter the only rival standing between him and the title. That rival is Jamestown, 2-year-old champion of 1930, and while the two are fighting it out turf history is likely to be enriched with one of the most sensational races of recent seasons.

THESE TWO STARS have never met, Owner George D. Widener having kept Jamestown out of the earlier stakes this year in order to save him for the Belmont. But, for all that, Jamestown's class is just as well established as that of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Derby winner.

George D. Widener

In seven starts as a 2-year-old in 1930 he lost only to Epithet in the Hopeful, and he wiped that out later by beating Epithet handily in the Futurity. This year he has continued to show the rare racing qualities that cause many to consider him as at least equal to Twenty Grand.

A GREAT RACE that might be termed almost a toss-up is in prospect with the outcome in doubt right up to the finish. The one thing that causes a slight leaning toward Twenty Grand is that the latter is known to be a great distance horse—and today's race is at a mile and a half—whereas Jamestown never went farther than a mile until the Colin last Monday at a mile and an eighth. There is a possibility, of course, that another starter, Sun Meadow, may pull the Jim Dandy trick and best both of them, but the chances are against it. Signs point to a two-horse race with Twenty Grand holding a slight edge, but he'll have to be at his peak to win.

BRAME TO PITCH TODAY

TRIO OF STARS TO START IN RICH RACE

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, Kentucky Derby winner, and George D. Widener's Jamestown, king of 1930 juveniles, settle the question of 3-year-old supremacy in the sixty-third running of the $75,000 Belmont Stakes today.

Overnight, only one other horse, Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's Sun Meadow, has been named to battle it out with the two big aces of the small field, but added starters may make it more than a three-horse race by post time.

Regardless of track conditions, Twenty Grand, carrying the colors of Mrs. Whitney's Greentree Stable, probably will rule a slight favorite over Jamestown.

Sun Meadow, the third starter, has been virtually overlooked in the heated discussions over the relative merits of Twenty Grand and Jamestown, but some race followers still remember that Travers mile of 1930, when Jim Dandy, at 100 to 1, came home in front of both Gallant Fox and Whichone.

Charlie Kurtsinger has been named to ride Twenty Grand, Linus (Pony) McAtee will have the mount on Jamestown, and Louis Schaefer on Sun Meadow.

Post time is 3:15 p. m., eastern standard time.

REFEREE GETS FULL POWER

CLEVELAND, June 13.—(AP.)—The referee will be given complete charge of the handling of the world championship bout between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling here the night of July 3, as long as he follows instructions laid down by the Cleveland Boxing Commission, the board announced last night.

The commission will issue "such additional instructions as are deemed necessary for protection of the public and betterment of the fight," if it feels the referee fails to adhere strictly to its rules.

The two judges to be appointed will have the sole duty of balloting on the decision, which will be rendered by them and the referee, the commission notified the participants and promoters.

The commission further notified the interested parties that it will select the referee, making every effort to make a choice suitable to contestants and the promoter.

A set of "no foul" regulations, designed to prevent award of victory on the claim of a low blow also was adopted.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: RACZ PALI, FATHER OF 48 FAMOUS VIOLINISTS—Racz Pali, best known of the Hungarian gypsy violinists of the past century, was the father of 48 sons, all of whom inherited their father's mastery in handling the violin and in time led gypsy bands of their own. Pali's striking appearance, his eccentric behavior and his virtuosoship made him a great favorite with the noble ladies of the gay Hungarian capital. He had 18 wives.

SPIEGEL WINS OVER WELCH

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 13.—(AP.)—Joey Spiegel, 140, Uniontown, won a 10-round decision over Teddy Welch, 143¾, McKeesport, last night.

Eddie Webner, 136½, Clairton, won in six rounds over U. S. Carpentier, 131¾, New Kensington. Johnny Warner, 124½, Clairton, defeated Sammy Paris, 125, Pittsburgh, in six rounds.

EIGHTS STAGE TIME TESTS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 13.—(AP.)—Crews of California, Washington, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania had time trials over the regatta course on the Hudson yesterday.

Pennsylvania was clocked at 20:53. The other times were not announced, but all were reported to have been slightly on either side of 20 minutes, with Washington the fastest. It was generally accepted in the camps today that Cornell's time in Thursday's trial was 20:30. Columbia's time the day previous is said to have been slightly better.

Mac Rae Sykes, Columbia varsity stroke, and Bob Ward, No. 3 in the same boat, did not row with the Lions yesterday. Coach Glendon said both were a trifle underweight and he was giving them a day's rest.

ENID WILSON WINS TITLE

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 13.—(AP.)—Miss Enid Wilson, 21-year-old golf champion of England, became champion of the British Isles, winning decisively in the finals of the British ladies golf champions yesterday from Miss Wanda Morgan, of Westgate-on-Sea, 7 and 6.

With the big silver cup, presented to her by James McNeill, governor-general of the Irish Free State, in her arms Miss Wilson turned her eyes and her thoughts toward the United States and new golfing worlds to conquer.

Her father promised her either an automobile or a trip to America if she won the cup and she chose the trip. Accompanied by Mrs. R. D. Porter, herself a noted golfer, Miss Wilson plans to compete in both the United States and Canadian championships.

JACOBS, BELL IN FINAL

BALTIMORE, June 13.—(AP.)—Berkeley Bell, of Texas, and Eddie Jacobs, of the University of Pittsburgh, but whose home is in Baltimore, fought their way into the finals of the Maryland state tennis tournament yesterday. Jacobs will defend his title in the finals today.

The Texan, after a struggle in the first set, which he won, 10-8, had less difficulty in disposing of Ed Yoemans, of North Carolina, in the second, 6-1.

Jacobs beat Ted Easton, of Stanford University, in his match, 6-3 and 6-3. The Californian threatened to force the second set to three all before Jacobs ran out by winning his own service twice and breaking through Easton's.

Bell was seeded first and Jacobs second.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Your Uncle Nick didn't take phrenology lessons by mail for nothing. Didn't I tell you our Washington club would give the A's a race? Things got better just as soon as the congressmen got out of town. We began hitting, pitching and fielding better. And now that Borah is pulling out to spend the summer in Idaho, things should even get better than that for us. Philadelphia has never sewed up a flag since Betsy Ross did it and this year's American League race is still a free-for-all. It's even possible for the Tigers to win the pennant on an accident policy.

The Pirates and Giants are slated to finish their interesting series this afternoon. It is not necessary for you to have gambling traits to feel the Men of McGraw are just about a two-to-one shot to win in view of the apparently demoralized condition of the Pittsburgh infield, not to mention the tissue-paper attack of some of our best batters. Still you cannot take much for granted in baseball.

Ervin Brame is all set to heckle the Polo Grounders. And it seems to be a foregone conclusion that McGraw will trot out a pitcher of a distinctive heckling type. John J. has Clarence (Lefty) Mitchell primed for the finale, and you perhaps know that Clarence is the only southpaw spitball pitcher in captivity. Some of his offerings are so slow their owner makes himself liable to false pretense, but this is a free country and not even Judge Landis can make Clarence bear down, if he wishes to put a string on the ball.

Manager Ens this morning, on top of the bad setback of yesterday, stated he would go back to his righthand batting formation if Mitchell goes to Gogarty Knoll. That means Bennett, Regan, Comorosky and Phillips will be in active roles.

FITZSIMMONS STRONG

Fred Fitzsimmons opposing the Buccos yesterday, Boss Ens gave his lineup the most drastic shakeup it has experienced this season. Gus Suhr went back into action with Earl Grace under the bat, Fred Bennett was placed in the cleanup notch of the order and the Waner boys changed places in the battle front. But the Pirates gave a miserable exhibition in the field and were overwhelmed, 8 to 2.

Remy Kremer was the victim of some loose fielding as he tied into Fitzsimmons, while Fitz was the beneficiary of a great piece of work by Fred Lindstrom which may have served as the balance of power in the game.

The Pirates opened up on the knuckle-ball star with a hammer-and-tongs attack. P. Waner walked and Grantham doubled off

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

P. T. A. Inter-Club League racqueteers will battle for early-season position as the district net loop hurtles into its second week of 1931 competition on local rectangles this afternoon. Torrid tussling last Saturday offered ample indication of the fact that the bi-divisional circuit is stronger and better balanced this season than it has been for many a long moon and rivalry generated in the opening contests is certain to be reflected in promising combats of today.

The champion Edgewood aggregation tops the Section I program with invasion of the Stanton Heights lot. The Stantonians inaugurated hostilities by administering a 7-2 reversal to the dangerous Westinghouse host and at present stand in deadlock with Howdy Campbell's College Hill crew for top post of the upper wheel.

MOUNTS FACE TEST

College Hill encounters a tough one in taking on Mount Lebanon on the latter's courts. The Mount squad has been weakened by return to Philadelphia of the veteran Blakeley, who figured in triumphs in both singles and doubles in the lid-lifter against P. A. A., but Knoche, Unger and Alcorn remain—and there's a trio capable of making the best of 'em step. The Winged Head, determined to gain ground on the ancient Edgewood rival as the Suburbanites battle Stanton Heights, entertains Westinghouse in the Bigelow-and-Ruskin enclosure, and the rehabilitated University Club contingent jaunting to South Hills.

In Section II, the pace-setting Bellevue delegates travel to Point Breeze for action against Charley Lyon's West Penn Powerites, who last week surprised all dopesters by trimming the crowned head of the crack Westinghouse Second team in the Electricians' own ballwick, 5-4. Meanwhile Sam Keller's Duquesne Librarians will seek to advance at the expense of the youthful Rockwood entourage in a fracas on Library turf.

TITLE ASPIRANTS CLASH

Perhaps the outstanding fracas of the lower sector program brings together Howard Moore's clever College Avenue combine and the ever-consistent Washington Heights crew. This affair, booked for the Heights area, looms as a real test of strength between a brace of entrants boasting quite reasonable championship aspirations. The outcome of the debate should lend something of definite caste to the second-division race. The East Enders boast slight edge in the guessing.

Rounding out the card, the reserve outfits of South Hills and Westinghouse will clash, the Electrics cavorting at home. Comeback of Capt. Jack Creighton should add plenty of power to the Hilltop roster way down the list.

MOORE TO BOX SOLOMEN

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Mickey Solomen, veteran middleweight of New Castle, who inaugurated a comeback campaign following a layoff by beating Carl Montebano at the Meyers Bowl last Monday night, will appear in the eight-round semi-final at Hickey Park, Millvale, against Jimmy Moore, local Negro, next Thursday night.

Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, meets Archie Bell, of New York, in the 10-round windup.

Sammy Dorfman, of New York, and Harry Fierro, of Chicago, both are due to arrive in town tomorrow morning for their battles in the Meyers Bowl ring Monday night. Dorfman meets Eddie Brannon, local Negro lightweight, in the 10-round main bout, and Fierro is in with Mose Butch, local southpaw bantamweight, in the eight-round semi-final.

Bolstering the card is an eight-round second bout between Joe Walters, Springfield, O., Negro middleweight puncher, and Indian Tiger West, of Monessen. Walters has knocked out Al Becker, beaten Jimmy Taylor and drawn with and knocked out Pal Silvers in bouts here and is a favorite with the fans. Jackie Murray, Negro welterweight, of the Hill, and Eddie Brinkman, of Wheeling, open the Bowl show with a six-rounder.

Between Rounds

Bout: Mr. Arthur McKeesport lightweight boxer meets Johnny Conley in a 10-round main bout at Toledo next Friday night.

The Meyers Bowl is working on a bout for Emmett A. Rocco, Ellwood City Italian heavyweight, against Ernie Schaaf or some other outstanding big fellow for one week from next Monday night.

A few months ago Tex Phillips former middleweight boxing champion of Idaho was back home working on boats and couldn't get a match—even the local promoters were afraid of him, all over the country as a result of the feat of subbing for Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, and fighting fourteen rounds against the then middleweight champion of the world at Chicago one Thursday night.

Tiger Joe Randall, local Negro welterweight, wants a return bout with Young Rudy, whereby he floored and defeated at Hickey Park, Millvale, on Thursday night, although the official decision went down against him. All of the local newspapers voted the majority of fans declared for Randall as the winner.

GERMANS PRESS U. S. STARS

BERLIN, June 13.—(AP)—The United States won both singles matches in the international team series with Germany yesterday to take a lead of two matches to none, but the walkaway predicted for the Americans did not materialize.

John Van Ryn won his match easily enough from Ferdinand Henkel, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, but George Lott, Jr., his Philadelphia partner, had to go five sets to win from Dr. Heinz Landmann.

Dr. Landmann was substituted at the last minute for Fritz Kuhlmann, who failed to show up at the courts.

Given little chance against the American, the good doctor proceeded to surprise the onlookers by taking the first two sets from the American 6-3, 6-3. Lott struggled there to take the third set 6-3, and came back after the rest period to run out the match, 6-4, 6-2.

SCOTTIES TAKE M.-A. LEAD

Scottdale punched its way to the top of the Middle Atlantic League yesterday by nosing out Huntington, 4 to 3, and Charleston, which grabbed the lead away from Cumberland earlier in the week lost a game and went into a tie for second place with the Colts.

The Scotties scored three runs in the ninth inning to beat Huntington. Bruckman walloping a home run with two on to end the struggle. Mueller hurled a nice game, limiting Huntington to six hits.

Altoona turned on Charleston and recorded a 10-to-4 victory, although outhit 11 to 10 and committing five errors.

Cumberland remained in the running by taking over Fairmont, 10 to 5, while Johnstown pulled up to within striking distance of fourth place by walloping Beckley, 15 to 2. The Johnnies hit three Beckley hurlers for 23 safe blows.

Hap Blair, Johnstown right fielder, hit safely in his twentieth consecutive game as the Johnnies won. Blair, who hit safely five times in as many times at the plate, has hit at least once in every game since he donned a Johnstown uniform. He was acquired by the Johnnies late in May from Charleroi.

Hagerstown turned in a double victory over Wheeling. In the first game the Marylanders won, 10 to 2, and then, to add insult to injury, Fryman blanked the Stogies, 4 to 0, in the second game, giving up only three safe hits.

Charleroi won over Clarksburg 9 to 4, to even the series.

RIIS TO OPEN NORTH PARK JUNE 22

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The North Park county golf course will not be opened until the week of June 22, according to Director of County Parks Paul B. Riis, unless he is ordered to do so by the County Commissioners.

About a month ago Director Riis announced he would have the course in condition for play on June 15.

The first nine holes of the North Park course are fit for play if play is imperative, Director Riis said, but he believes an extra week of the present excellent growing conditions will be of great assistance to him in presenting a good, playable layout to the public. To begin play next week, in his judgment, would do the course more harm than good.

When the links is officially opened for play only the first nine holes will be available, with the second nine slated to be put into play in mid-August. The matter of the opening of the North Park links will stand as stated by Director Riis for the week of June 22, unless otherwise ordered by the commissioners.

JIM LONDOS WINS

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—(AP)—Jim Londos, Greek claimant of the world championship wrestling title, last night defeated Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football captain. Londos threw his opponent in 1 hour, 2 minutes 30 seconds with a body slam and head lock. Londos weighed 200, McMillen 216.

SALEM PLACES SIX IN MEET FINALS

CHICAGO, June 13.—(AP)—Another band of bronzed athletes from Ft. Collins, Colo. high, have served notice in the twenty-seventh renewal of the University of Chicago national interscholastic track and field championships, that it is after its fourth title.

The Ft. Collins team, seemingly better balanced than when it won in 1925, 1926 and 1928, yesterday qualified six men for the finals or semi-finals today, and apparently had enough power to win again.

SALEN PLACES SIX

Salem, O., High, and Oak Park, of Chicago, also qualified six, and promised the Colorado team a hard battle. DuPont Manual Training High, of Louisville, Ky., declared itself in by qualifying four.

The team title battle apparently was restricted but the struggle for individual championships was wide open. Heading the double qualifiers was Amsden Oliver, lanky Negro hurdler from Roosevelt High, Dayton, O.

Oliver was beaten by inches in the high hurdles last year and lost the lows when he fell while leading over the last hurdle yesterday. He turned in the best marks for both events, doing the 120-yard highs in 15.6 and the lows in 24.8.

DASH DUEL TO BE CLOSE

Randall Herman, of Oak Park, Chicago, winner of the 100-yard dash in :09.9 last year, won his quarter final heat in 10 seconds yesterday, but needed to watch Owen, of Maplewood, Mo., who won his opening heat in :09.9.

Salem, the Ohio contender, concentrated on places in the field. Smith and Raymond qualified in the discus, Reese and Lease in the running broad jump, Beck qualified for the pole vault and high jump.

FIELD CLUB STAR WINS

By the margin of a single stroke, Mrs. C. I. Wendt, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, captured top honors in the weekly one-day tournament of the Women's Golf Association yesterday over the Stanton Heights layout. Mrs. Wendt scored 44-40—84 while Miss Anjeannette Hunter, of Oakmont, trailed with 44-41—85.

Mrs. Wendt also won the low net honors, her handicap of seven strokes giving her a net of 77. As only one prize can be won by a player, another Field Club entrant, Mrs. S. C. Lewars, who had scored 93-15—78, won the first prize.

Mrs. W. G. Boggs, of Shannopin, turned in 46-40—86 for third place, while Mrs. L. G. Riley, of Edgewood, had an 87. The scores follow:

CICERO SCORES SCHENLEY'S THIRD RUN IN SECOND INNING

SEC. II NINE RALLIES TO GET DRAW

For the second time during the series, the nines of Schenley and South Hills, battling for the City Scholastic League baseball title, have fought to a tie, and as a result the annual playoff series, annually carded for only three games, will go into its fifth, probably next Tuesday evening.

Last evening, at Forbes Field, the rival nines played a 10-inning 3-3 deadlock. South Hills had won the second game and Schenley the third, after the teams had drawn in the initial tussle.

South Hills, after taking a lead in the first inning, had to come from behind to tie the count yesterday. Schenley rushed over a trio of runs in the second frame, but thereafter was held helpless while the Hillsmen tallied in the thrid and again in the fifth.

STRATTON FANS 14

The two ace-hurlers of the City League, Stratton, of Schenley, and Lentz, of South Hills, opposed one another on the mound for the fourth time. Both gave up eight hits, while Stratton fanned 14 to 7 for Lentz. Four of Stratton's strikeouts were secured at the expense of Lentz, usually a heavy hitter.

Firrell singled in the first inning, stole second and then scored on Reinheimer's lusty base blow over second. That gave South Hills its first run.

Schenley came back in the second to record three markers. Regan dropped Reinheimer's throw and Renno was safe. Grupp singled and Cicero was safe on McGrath's wild throw. Renno scoring. Stratton poked a single to left to score Grupp and Costanzo singled to send Cicero over.

Regan made up for his error by poling out a triple in the third after Firrell had been passed. Regan was thrown out as he tried to stretch the smash into a home run.

TIE IN FIFTH

The score was tied in the fifth when McGrath doubled to left and Reinheimer singled, his second of the game.

Reinheimer and Regan, of South Hills, and Costanzo and Grupp, of Schenley, each slugged out a pair of hits to lead in the attacks of the respective nines, Qualley, of Schenley, and Firrell, of the Tunnelites, each turned in sparkling fielding plays. The score:

Virginia Hilleary, Mrs. Jessups in Fina

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 13.—(AP.)—Miss Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, defending champion, and Mrs. Marion Jessups, of Wilmington, Del., will meet today for the women's Pennsylvania and eastern states title. Miss Hilleary defeated Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., 6-3, 7-5, and Mrs. Jessups eliminated Anne Townsend, of Merion, 6-4, 6-1, in the semi-finals yesterday.

The doubles title also will be fought out between the four named, Miss Hilleary and Miss Andrus opposing Mrs. Jessups and Miss Townsend.

JUNIOR GOLF ENTRY HEAVY

If the entries for the annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph West Penn junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, slated for the Schenley Park municipal links Tuesday, July 30, continue to roll in as fast as they have the last two days, a field of well over 1,000 will be on hand for the banner event.

The tourney director is going to have his hands full in handling the entries if they continue to roll in as they have so far.

Two district country clubs through the caddie masters, have announced intentions of qualifying their caddies next week. The bag toters at Stanton Heights will play Monday and those at Alcoma Tuesday.

Any boy who has an amateur standing as defined by the U. S. G. A. rules, who is 19 years of ago or under, and who is not attending an institution of learning above preparatory school grades, may enter—that includes the caddies who are 17 years of age and under. Once a caddie has attained his eighteenth birthday he cannot caddie for money and retain his amateur status.

The list will close on Thursday, June 25, with the Golf Tournament Editor. Clip your entry today, fill it in, have it signed and shoot it immediately to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

CARDINALS STAY IN SLUMP

CUBS, GIANTS CLOSE IN ON LEADERS

Associated Press.

The real tough spots in the current pennant race have been few and far between for the St. Louis Cardinals, but they seem to have struck one in the current series with the Boston Braves.

Up to yesterday, the Cards had not lost more than two games in a row all season and had done that only on three previous occasions. Then the Braves stepped up and made it three straight over the National League champions, winning, 7 to 5. Ed Brandt and Burleigh Grimes, pitchers with two of the best records in the circuit, were sent against each other. Grimes yielded 15 hits, including homers by Berger and Dreesen, before he was removed in the sixth, while Brandt lasted until the final frame, giving only seven hits and fanning six.

CARD LEAD CUT

The defeat reduced the Cardinals' lead to two and one-half games as the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants continued their neck-and-neck race with a victory apiece. The Cubs made it three straight over Philadelphia by a 7-to-4 count while the Giants overwhelmed Pittsburgh, 8 to 2.

Fred Fitzsimmons pitched eight shutout innings for the Giants, after a wabbly start, granting only six hits altogether, while New York piled up 14 blows.

In the American League, Cleveland's mound ace, Wes Ferrell, was driven from the mound in four innings by the slugging Washington Senators. Led by the supposedly injured Joe Cronin, who made three hits in four times at bat, the Senators won their seventh straight game, 7 to 1.

RED SOX WIN

Jack Russell set the Detroit Tigers down with three hits and Boston won, 3 to 1, although held to five blows by George Uhle. The Red Sox went into a tie with Chicago for sixth place as the White Hose dropped an 11-to-2 decision to the New York Yankees.

Roy Mahaffey gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 6-to-1 triumph over the St. Louis Browns.

MANLEY VICTOR

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., June 13.—(AP.)—Billy Manley, Charleston, lightheavyweight, won a six-round decision over Jack Kearns, of Akron, in the feature attraction of an American Legion boxing show here last night. Manley weighed 173 pounds and Kearns 187.

English Derby Shown In Hearst Film Here

The Hearst Metrotone News hung up another scoop with the first showing in this country of the running of the English Derby. The race is one of the many features in the current edition now showing at Loew's Penn Theater.

In addition to the grueling stretch run which landed Cameronian a half-length verdict over Orpen, and other views of the race, the Hearst cameraman also was on the job when King George and his royal party arrived and took their seats in the royal box.

GRAYS BATTLE PAIR OF FOES TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

The Homestead Grays will take on another city rival at Forbes Field this evening, after the Pirates and Giants have finished their major league tussle, when they face the Homewood City League nine.

The struggle will be the second of the day for the Negro stars, who have Edgewood to get past in a matinee engagement. The games head the day's sandlot card.

HOMEWOOD BEATEN

Last evening, Homewood's first-half title hopes in the City League received a severe jolt when the J. L. Thomas nine hung up a 7-to-2 victory. In another City loop fray, the North Side Buicks defeated the Civics, 10 to 2.

Another title contender, Reliance Life, in the West Penn League, was served a surprise, when Turtle Creek scored a 5-to-4 victory. The Homestead Aces gained ground on the Lifers by blanking the Martins, 5 to 0.

In the Greater Pittsburgh League, Edgewood walloped Verona, 13 to 2; Fintex nosed out Iroquois, 3 to 2; Wally Smiths put on the power to win over Jenkins, 11 to 7, and Immaculate Heart downed Whitaker, 10 to 7.

CARDS, SAINTS TIE

The East End Cardinals and St. Elizabeth battled to a 2-2 tie in Steel City League.

The Homestead Grays invaded Ambridge and defeated the P. J. Cauls, 8 to 3. The Cauls gave the Grays a good game. St. Joachim defeated Carnegie, 7 to 3, and the Pleasant Valley Smilers won over the Miller Stars, 10 to 5.

In other independent frays, Crawfords upset Glassport, 8-6; Bellevue trimmed the Triangles, 7-1; Linwood won over Duquesne Steel, 8-1; Protectory eked out a win over the Rinkeydinks, 5-4, and Ingomar beat Book Shoe, 5-4.

the rightfield stands. L. Waner singled and Bennett walloped the ball to the rightfield stands. The last-named smash looked like a two-sacker at least, but Lindy slid up the wall for a brilliant catch of the ball and the inning yielded only two runs, where four or more seemed to be on the way.

Terry opened the second for McGraw with a single and when Grantham failed to hold Ott's liner, the drive went for a hit and the Giants scored two runs in the inning. Grantham leaped and had the ball in his gloved hand but failed to hold it. In the third, Thevenow fumbled a double-play ball and the Giants proceeded to score three more runs. Kremer left for the showers in this frame, Bob Osborn going to the mound.

OSBORN WEAKENS

Osborn held the Giants scoreless until the seventh when they scored twice, Fred Leach opening the round with a wallop into the rightfield stands.

Charlie Wood, young lefthander, made his first appearance of the season on the home grounds in the ninth. Wood still had some of his wildness, the Giants scoring a run on a wild pitch.

Fitz pitched eight runless rounds after the noisy first inning.

U. S. OPEN NEXT FOR ARMOUR

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Tommy Armour, open champion of Great Britain and Canada, king of America's professional golfers, returned yesterday from his latest triumph overseas, keen and eager to tackle the one great world left for him to conquer this year—the American open.

You never could tell, as the Black Scot, of Edinburgh, held the British open title cup in the hollow of his left arm while photographers posed him on the deck of the Aquitania yesterday, that this arm was shattered by machine gun bullets during the World War. There was no sign, as he squinted into the talking picture cameras and told how it felt to be Bobby Jones' successor as Britain's golfing ruler, that he was blinded in one eye by the same leaden hail.

"I was lucky to win," he said, his lean, dark face smiling. "It wasn't that I took too few strokes, but that the rest of the boys took too many. Anyone must be lucky to win a major tournament. I'll do everything I can to make the luck hold at Toledo next month."

Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, like Armour former American open champions, came back on the Aquitania with him.

Examinations for recreational leaders at the city playgrounds are now being held by the Civil Service Commission. The tests are to continue until June 22, having opened yesterday. The examinations are the first in five years and there are approximately 400 applicants for the 140 positions.

Forty-three persons already hold provisional appointments which in previous years had been made by Director Edward G. Lang for all of the summer positions.

The tests were arranged following a complaint from the Allegheny County Civic Club that during the five years when no eligible lists were prepared more than 500 men and women had been appointed without proper examination.

WED 43 YEARS, ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret A. Rattigan, 306 East Tenth avenue, Homestead, asked Judge Joseph Stadtfeld in Common Pleas Court for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty from John J. Rattigan, whom she married 43 years ago. She said:

"He has not supported me in 20 years. In 1925 he struck me on the head with his fist during an argument and knocked me unconscious. He afterwards said, 'I put her to sleep that time; the next time she will not wake up.' In 1928 he chased me with a butcher knife."

Jenny Becomes Ill, Faces A Serious Operation

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XXXII.

Ramon must be placated. There had never as yet been a time when Jenny, in Ramon's behalf, had drawn against her account for sums that would be noticeably unusual. But in a pinch, that could be managed. There were ways of arranging with jewelers and furriers for bills to be presented for goods never delivered.

That was a common device employed by women who unbeknown to husbands lost large sums at gambling. You arranged with your furrier, for instance, to send in a statement for a five-thousand-dollar mink coat. You returned the wrap, but paid the check, which in good time was returned to you in currency by your tradesman . . .

When one was desperate and yet, somehow, terribly relentlessly, Ramon did not seem to want to be placated. What—what in God's name did one, who felt the universe slipping, do to reclaim it?

It was then that digestion seemed to go nervously back on her, and that Jenny decided to visit the specialist. Actually, Ramon's antipathy for illness was something reprehensible of course, but at the same time adorable and fascinating and fastidious in him.

PHYSICAL DISTRESS

Illness was something from which you protected Ramon.

It was an acutely wretched week of physical distress that preceded this visit to the specialist, about which neither Jennifer nor Rarick had inkling. Not even the maid in the Breton cap, a staunch south-of-France woman, who had served Jenny well and long, knew to what extent she had been in torment.

The verdict was neither so good as she had hoped nor so bad as she half feared.

Some digestive complications. The specialist's manner was casual and reassuring. Thank God for that. Life was good. But the best method of diagnosis and determination would mean a short period of observation at a hospital. Few days. A little troublesome, but nothing to worry about. X-rays. Fluoroscope. Test meals. A chill rattled itself against Jenny. Hospital!

"Nothing to be alarmed about. Most efficient method. Merely a checking-up process."

"Yes, yes, of course."

Then and there the matter was arranged by telephone.

"A large suite, doctor?"

He placed his hand across the mouthpiece.

"The hospital is too crowded to allow for suites, Mrs. Rarick. You are fortunate to be able to obtain a single and bath. Is Friday all right?"

"Yes."

The suite did not matter, except to Ramon. Flowers to the ceiling of a sitting-room. Chaise-longue. None of the onus of illness. One simply could not be ill in a hard white hospital fashion for Ramon's sake.

"... besides Mrs. Rarick, I have no intention of confining you to the hospital those few days. You may leave every afternoon after we have tinkered at you for a few hours, but you must have all your meals at the hospital and return at 6 o'clock evenings for your dinner and early bed."

DOCTOR CALLS RARICK

Perhaps then Ramon need never know. There could be nothing seriously amiss with one who was allowed such leniency.

Ramon need not know, Friday, Saturday and Sunday would pass quickly. She could disappear under pretext of week-end. Nuisance, having to tell Jennifer and Rarick. And, oh dear, Friday was the Gluxom dinner (not that the Gluxoms really counted) and Saturday the automobile contest at the Garden, a society competitive gala contest for the most beautiful car. Jenny's new special-body Twin Hercules had just arrived from Italy—oh dear . . .

* * *

So Jenny took the overhauling, for the most part in good nature, rushing back to the hospital apologetically late, and creating in her wake a confusion, a specialness, and a lavishness that were as outwardly annoying as they were secretly impressive to the nurses.

At the end of the three days, Jenny, her maid, her pillows, her special bedding, her framed photograph of Avery, her bottles of scents, her thermos flasks, her silver flower vases, her special breakfast china, her frilled bed-jackets, her character dolls and stuffed dogs, departed from the hospital for home.

Three days after that, the reports on her tests were completed.

Something that had not happened to Rarick in years occurred one morning. At least it had not happened to him since his clerkship days in Schwebbe's hardware store.

A peremptory command, in the form of a hand-delivered message, lay on his desk. Hellman had laid it face-up on the top of his sorted mail.

It is imperative that you come to my office alone at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Regard this as confidential.

JOHN NOON.

Noon was the man under whose care Jenny had been during this recent little disturbance. An illustrious figure in medicine, who had recently operated on an ex-president of the United States, and who was almost certain to be called in first or named as consultant in the illnesses of the great.

VISITS HOSPITAL

Could this little upset of Jenny's have a graver significance than he, Rarick, had realized? She had made so light of it. He had scarcely regarded it as more than a faddistic bit of rest-cure. His trips to the hospital had impressed him chiefly for the air of festivity in the sick room.

Women got out of gear like that. Not Jenny, it is true, but the expensive hospitals fairly yawned for the run of them.

There was something about this wiry woman, Jenny, that had seemed to him immediately after his marriage to her, to be highly cutaneous, as if she were incased in an armor of brittle but resistant skin. Pain did not get at her. She never perspired. Her hands had the cool polished feel to them of having been dipped in tallow. It struck Rarick that he had never seen her blood. If she had ever pricked her finger, it had not yielded a drop.

And now this from the doctor that, after all, Jenny might be more than just a corporeal surface . .

It is imperative that you come to my office alone at 4 o'clock this afternoon . . .

At four o'clock, Rarick stepped out of his car and into the tall, narrow building that contained the four stories of offices, laboratories, consultation-and-observation rooms of Dr. John Noon.

His summons into an inner office came almost immediately. It struck Rarick with surprise that he was trembling. Here was a firm that dealt in human destinies. He was doing business with it.

An old man sat at an old desk in an old room. At least, the Dr. Noon of this room looked older than the Dr. Noon of the hospital. His desk was uncluttered as Rarick's own. Again it was the uncluttered desk of a busy man. There were two sheets of white paper spread on it.

OPERATION IMPERATIVE

"I have sent for you, Mr. Rarick, before communicating with your wife. In cases like this it seems best . . .

"You are not. I take it, the man to want beating around the bush."

"No."

"There is a possibility that Mrs. Rarick's trouble may be a major one. I say possibility advisedly, because an operation may reveal it to be an unmalignant complaint that will respond to surgery. Miss Bart, bring in Mrs. Rarick's X-ray plates."

"Here are our findings, Mr. Rarick. See this negative." There was a wall-frame ready to receive it, with an electric bulb behind, that made transparent the story of the flesh of Jenny, told in bits of waving lines and clumps of shadow. So there was the bit that was Jenny—on glass—in light—in shadow—

"Those heavy spots in there, Mr. Rarick, are what concern us. The X-ray cannot reveal their depth. But these shadows indicate er—a—an obstruction alimentary canal—may merely be ulcerous—if inoperable—close up wound—but better to explore—in other words—imperative that the attempt at surgery be made . . ."

God knows that was plain enough. All this elaborate preamble boiled itself down to the fact that Jenny must go under the knife. Either her complaint was operable or not.

"The exploratory knife will tell."

"You have about summed it up, Mr. Rarick. It is not improbable that Mrs. Rarick's complaint may prove itself to be of a nature that will respond to surgery."

"Of course."

"I am sorry to have been obliged to call you here on such a mission, Mr. Rarick. There is, of course, reason to feel concern. On the other hand, there is reason to feel optimism. Strong constitution, excellent health-history . . . hope . . ."

"Of course. Of course . . ."

"I—shall discreetly advise your wife—do not acquaint any other member of your family—keep atmosphere free of anxiety—spare her any undue nervous shock—I will be the one to advise her—make all arrangements—within week—exceedingly regret—better to look situation squarely in face—keep sanguine—extremely glad to have met you, Mr. Rarick—long been an admirer. Rarick Building fitting monument—uncertain weather for this time of year—Miss Scow will show you to the elevator. Have Mrs. McCormack come in—Good afternoon, Mr. Rarick—"

Late sunlight lay on the stoop of the house as he left it.

"Where, sir?" said his chauffeur, after he had stood at attention for several minutes after Mr. Rarick had seated himself in the car.

"Where? Just drive."

DAILY SHORT STORY

Shipping Clerk Vacations With Rich Relatives

'Yes Indeedy!'

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

The Bakers took their poor nephew, Sidney Trafton, up to the Birches with them.

The Birches is a mammoth summer hotel high in the White Mountains. It rambles across a great knoll, facing a large private lake, shadowed by the presidential range of mountains and flanked by 20 tennis courts, a polo field and an 18-hole golf course.

It costs big money to have your vacation at The Birches.

But then, the Bakers had money, quite a lot of it. Mr. Baker was something or other in a chemical concern, something that paid him about $30,000 a year besides his stock dividends.

He had three sons. They held down pretty good positions in this chemical concern. The sort of positions they considered to be good, for they had pull and enjoyed the light work of being office officials, pulling down much more than they earned and being kow-towed to because the "Old Man" was the big shot of the corporation.

Sidney Trafton, son of Mrs. Baker's brother, did not hold down a position in the chemical works—he held down just a plain job—a hard job that paid him $75 a week, and he earned at least twice that. He was in the shipping department and studied out rates of various roads and ship lines and saved the company much money thereby.

It happened that at Christmas the Bakers had Sidney out at their Long Island place. The three Baker boys were "nice" to Sidney, or thought they were. They treated him kindly, gave him a lot of their clothes and let him use their skiis, skates and such things when out at the country place for the holidays.

The two younger brothers, Bert and Tom, went down to the pond for some skating.

Sidney had been down there and he told them not to go.

"You can't get far without nerve, Siddy boy," Tom said, patronizingly. Sidney was 24 and the youngest Baker boy was 26.

Sid warned them again. They laughed and struck out and both went down.

VIVACIOUS GIRL

Sid had to break the ice out to them and swim back with them one by one. Mr. Baker and some servants got there with a ladder just as Sidney brought the second cousin in.

Mr. Baker wanted to give Sidney $1,000.

Mrs. Baker, usually quiet, told him not to be such a thoroughly crass person—that relatives, blood relatives, did not accept money for saving each other's lives. Mr. Baker apologized.

That is why Mr. Baker arranged to take Sid up to The Birches the next summer and pay all of his expenses.

Sid was glad to go. He wanted some trout fishing and he wanted a taste of living the way the really rich people lived, which was only natural.

Sid had several thousand dollars saved. He outfitted himself quite satisfactorily, from sports to full evening clothes. There would be very little expense up there since Mr. Baker was "blowing" him to the full month's vacation.

The Baker boys weren't strong for fishing. They began to play around with the Van Alystine sisters and little Countess Berkley and the wealthy Hedley girl.

A little brown-haired girl came to The Birches with her invalid mother. She was always smiling and her and her clothes were quite all right, although a few laps behind in the very latest cry.

Her name was Diana Ogden.

Diana giggled quite a lot and before she had been there a week the younger set was secretly laughing at her and calling her "Yes indeedy!"

If you asked Diana if she was enjoying the summer she would answer, "Yes indeedy."

If you said, "Too bad it's raining today" she would agree with a "Yes indeedy."

Sid went up back of Mount Jefferson to fish for trout. To his amazement he found little Diana Ogden up there ahead of him with a native guide. She already had quite a catch.

SUGGESTS FISHING TRIP

"May I follow you, Diana?" Sid asked.

"Oh, yes, indeedy, Sid," she agreed.

They became quite friendly.

They returned together with the full string, that is, all the law permits to be taken in one day. Amateur photographers snapped their pictures.

That night they were too tired to dance and sat about for a while.

"Well, well, so you're falling for our little Miss Yes Indeedy," Bert Baker said at breakfast the next morning.

"She's a nice kid," Sid defended.

Mr. Baker snorted. All three Baker boys looked at Sid pityingly.

"Don't be dumb," the elder brother said, "forget the Yes Indeedy gal and grab yourself a fortune and a place in society. That's the only way you can get ahead."

"I don't have the least idea that she would marry me and I can manage to get along as it is."

Then he left the breakfast table and went boating on the lake with Diana.

She giggled a great deal, but changed seats and rowed the boat as cleverly as he could.

She giggled more when the Freeson girl began tagging him around.

"Let's sneak off fishing again tomorrow," Sidney suggested. "If I don't, I'll be dragged into a picnic with my uncle and that Freeson girl."

They went fishing, this time for square-tails in a pond. They ate their luncheon on a ledge under a pine tree and chased ants away and joked and had a wonderful time.

Diana asked Sidney about himself.

DIANA APPROVES

Without hesitation he told her all about it, except that he said he had done a little personal favor to his cousins and they were paying his hotel expenses.

"So you see I'm here under false colors," he finished.

"Not at all."

"You approve?"

"Yes indeedy!"

"Of my taking the free vacation—or of me?"

"Both," Diana agreed.

"I'm going to kiss you—will you object?"

"Yes indeedy—"

"Oh.

"—but only enough to be polite, I won't mean it."

She didn't have time to object.

"Dearest, I know that I can get a hundred a week as soon as I get back—not with my uncle, he thinks he's being charitable now, but with another chemical outfit. We could get along comfortably on that—if you'd care to make the sacrifice, I can take care of your mother, too—and we—I won't ever be happy without you."

"Mother has a little, enough for everything she needs, Sid. Now, do you love me enough to marry me on $100 a week?"

"I sure do. Do you love me enough to live on that?"

"Yes indeedy!"

They said a great deal more. Diana did not talk so very much about her home in Montana.

"We've always been comfortable, Sidney, and that counts. Father was a miner. He saved some and mother got it. We—mother wanted to come on East because she was born right up here in these mountains, or almost here, down below a few miles. The old place is gone now."

"Will your mother object?"

FOUND TO BE HEIRESS

Diana shook her head.

"Think she will approve?"

"Yes indeedy!"

"Every time you say that I'm going to kiss you!"

He did so.

"I shall always say it—yes indeedy—yes indeedy—"

Sidney kept count and lived up to his word. They returned with but a few trout, there had been more important things to do, such as becoming engaged.

Dressing in his room Sid was surprised to have Mr. Baker and the boys break in.

"What's up?" he asked.

Mrs. Ogden just told your aunt that you and the Yes Indeedy girl are engaged," said Mr. Baker.

"That's true, what of it? We're in love and everything is all right . . ."

"All right! All right! Look here, this girl is the heiress to the Jake Ogden Company—per mine stuff, she's got more millions than I've [illegible] thousands."

"Is this right, Uncle?"

"Dead right!"

Sidney said no more. He hunted up Diana and had a talk with her, she could talk, she could argue. She had her way.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker came across Sidney and Diana late that night, sitting out a dance in the moonlight.

"Hello there, you two . . . happy?" Mrs. Baker asked.

And in unison Sidney and Diana replied:

"Yes indeedy!"

Nation's Hidden Wealth Tapped by Frisby

By Horace Walpole Frisby.

It is an unknown fact that millions of dollars in small change lie hidden behind cushions of overstuffed chairs and davenports. I propose to buy up all the overstuffed furniture in the world and reclaim this hidden wealth. The picture above shows the deep sea cushion diving apparatus I have perfected for this purpose. All I need now is a few millions to buy up the furniture on the installment plan. The Frisby Financing Corporation therefore takes great pleasure in offering to the public 10,000,000,000 shares of common stock in this enterprise. Lily-liveried sissies are not asked to join us in this great adventure. We want red-blooded men. Remember, the blood of the pioneers sings through Frisby's veins. Get in touch with me at the depot, where I have opened headquarters in a public telephone booth.

Aiding Our Competitors

Local Coal Strike Is Fine for Southern West Virginia Operators—Brief Comment on Local News.

If the coal mining industry of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio is to survive, it will have to resort to every method that efficiency can suggest to circumvent the fierce competition of Southern West Virginia. In permitting the strike to develop we have played into the hands of the enemy. It is a gratifying situation from the standpoint of our competitors.

We hear of no labor trouble in the Southern West Virginia field, notwithstanding that wages there are notoriously the lowest paid. It can be taken for granted that the operators there will not be slow to utilize to the full the opportunities that disruption of the local industry has placed in their hands.

The season of coal shipments on the Great Lakes is well under way, and Pittsburgh cannot afford to sacrifice the small remnant that it still retains of this once vast trade. Unfair freight rates have taken most of it away from us and given it to the Southern operators. It is not inconceivable that a prolonged tie up of the local mines by labor trouble might deprive us of the rest of the Lake cargo business.

Western Pennsylvania coal operators recognized the United Mine Workers' organization and paid the union scale of wages until the non-union Southern West Virginia competition forced them to retrench. The chief hope of improving conditions in this field is to establish a more nearly even basis of competition with the Southern field.

We can attain a position of parity with our Southern competitors by descending to their level or by raising them to ours. The latter is, of course, the preferable plan. If the Southern operators, through unionization of their mines, or through some other method, should be forced to pay their miners good wages, the way would be opened for a satisfactory and uniform wage scale in this field.

Widening of the spread between freight rates which Southern operators pay and those that Pittsburgh operators pay would also be helpful. We pay $1.46 a ton to ship coal to the Great Lakes. The Southerners, with a haul several hundred miles longer, pay $1.81, or only 35 cents more. The differential should be two or three times as great.

Even with the Southerners' advantages in respect to wages eliminated, and the partiality shown them in railroad rates done away with, we would still be handicapped in competing with them by the lower taxes that they pay. The standard of living in Southern West Virginia is not as high as that in Western Pennsylvania, and the property owners in the former region do not pay for schools and good roads and public works to the extent that local taxpayers pay.

The difficulty of overcoming the advantages the Southerners enjoy is not to be underestimated. They have been slowly strangling the coal industry in this field, and the strike under way is of no little assistance to them. It may be that many of our high-cost mines will have to be closed permanently. That will throw men out of employment, to be sure; but the steady progress of mechanization will do the same thing anyway.

The United States Coal Commission reported in 1922 that "more miners are employed than are needed to produce the soft coal the country requires." The situation has certainly not improved since then. The absorption of the surplus miners in other fields of industry would do much to ameliorate conditions.

The twelve recommendations for improvement of the Public Works Department, submitted to Council by the Engineers' Committee of Five, are common sense suggestions for the most part. Undoubtedly efficiency and economy would be promoted by compliance with the advice.

Important legislation which was overlooked by the public because of the greater attention attracted by other measures is coming to light as Gov. Pinchot acts on the bills sent to him by the Legislature. It is gratifying to learn that a bill regulating the sale and use of firearms has become law. The licensing of dealers and "toters" of pistols will make it just a little more difficult for criminals to get possession of dangerous weapons.

More than 2,000 boys marched in parade through the South Side Thursday night as a demonstration of their desire for a boys' club. They should have the club, and that in the near future, Pittsburgh has been niggardly in providing recreation facilities for its boys and girls, especially in the congested districts.

Boys' clubs are desirable in sections where fields and playgrounds are scarce, not only because boys are entitled to recreation, but also because such institutions have a salutary influence on morals. Juvenile delinquency decreased in the Strip after a boys' club was opened. It freed the boys of the temptation to loaf on street corners, to form gangs, and get into mischief.

Do "brainy women" make good wives? Can a man love a "brainy woman?" The questions are of considerable interest at this time, as more and more Pittsburgh women forge to the front in intellectual achievements. For that reason you must not miss the discussion of the subject in an entertaining article to be published tomorrow in the American Weekly magazine section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

A quaint photograph of some Western Pennsyl- vania women, taken 50 years ago, will be reproduced in the Gravure Section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. By a curious coincidence the same women held a reunion recently, a half century after the old picture was made. The Gravure Section will also have a colorful portrait of Loretta Young, the popular motion picture actress, a reproduction of a brilliant German poster depicting the call of the golf links, and a painting of a circus scene by Laura Knight.

The splendid program that has been arranged for the observance of Flag Day in Pittsburgh tomorrow bears witness to Pittsburghers' patriotism. The exercises to be held in Schenley Park promise to be well worth going a long distance to attend.

All plans to limit the production of dope have been sidetracked at the International Narcotic Conference at Geneva.

The English delegate intimated that England does not want to grab ALL the dope trade. England is willing to give all the world a chance to make ALL THE DOPE IT CAN USE, and thinks that all nations should have their chance at the money made in narcotics.

Greed of the Opium Bloc, which has barred all effective measures to curb the menacing traffic, again pits its golden dollars against humanity's interests and wins.

The nations of the Western Hemisphere should band together to stem the tide of dope that flows in from overseas.

Hoover's Leadership

It Is Needed to Get Prosperity Loan That National Emergency Requires to Remedy Unemployment.

"BE great in act as you have been in thought," says Shakespeare.

As a candidate for President, Mr. Hoover gave utterance to a great thought when he advocated the construction of a vast program of public works.

"The organization and administration of this construction," Mr. Hoover said, in his address of acceptance, "is a responsibility of the first order. For it we must secure the utmost economy, honesty and skill.

"These works which will provide jobs for an army of men should, so far as practicable, be adjusted to take up the slack of unemployment elsewhere."

There was very little unemployment anywhere in this country when Mr. Hoover enunciated this sound public policy only three years ago next August.

Now nearly 6,000,000 of his fellow citizens are looking to President Hoover to discharge "a responsibility of the first order" by vigorously applying the remedy for unemployment which he so clearly prescribed as a presidential candidate.

THE way to do this, as William Randolph Hearst has pointed out, is for the federal government to float a five billion dollar prosperity loan, and spend it promptly in the building of badly needed public works.

"Recent government loans," said Mr. Hearst, "have been more than three times oversubscribed.

"A five billion dollar loan would be oversubscribed.

"There is plenty of money in the country, plenty of money in the savings banks, and the people have as much confidence in government securities as they have in the savings banks.

"Five billion dollars promptly spent in the employment of labor would promptly restore prosperity."

ADOPTION of Mr. Hearst's proposal, however, calls for the leadership of action by the head servants of the people.

It calls for the leadership of the President himself, for which, under our system of government, there is no substitute in peace or war.

Call the new Congress in session now, Mr. President!

Demand the five billion dollar prosperity loan that the national emergency requires!

Public sentiment will compel the Congress to enact your program into law.

The unemployed will be given work, business will revive, and prosperity will return.

Follow where the facts lead, Mr. Hoover, and make your performance as President square with your program as a candidate for President.

"Be great in act," Mr. President, "as you have been in thought."

Marry-Go-Round

The Beloved Tyrant

Next to possessing a new husband or a new baby, owning a house is the most wonderful and thrilling thing in the world!

* * *

For a whole month you live in the sweet and ecstatic delusion that you do "own it"—and then you discover that it owns YOU.

* * *

Every day it opens its insatiable maw and calls for a different meal. One day you feed the furnace, and the next kalsomine; the next, a few tons of coal; the next, rugs and linens and garden seed, and so on, ad infinitum.

* * *

Every day it swallows a week's income—and comes up smiling!

* * *

And yet, you LOVE it!

* * *

You trip up and down the stairs with your heart singing, "Mine, mine, mine!" You run your hand tenderly along its window ledges and pat its porch pillars with that sweet, delicious feeling of possession that makes your spine tingle and your throat ache.

* * *

With the passionate devotion of a mother for a child you are joyfully ready to sacrifice anything in the world for it!

* * *

If it wants a new coat of paint or a new hat of shingles, you cheerfully plan to do without that fur coat this season. If it demands a new cellar floor, you say,

"Baby needs shoes!" and decide to give up your trip to the Riviera so that it may have its heart's desire.

* * *

Whatever it cries for or even hints at it GETS! You watch it and tend it and feed it and dress it. Every time you plant a flowerbed you feel as though you were tying ribbons on its hair. Putting up a new curtain is as much of a joy as though you were arraying it in new rompers.

* * *

Oh, yes, owning a house is good for the soul!

* * *

It strengthens the will and teaches you self-discipline.

* * *

It develops your powers of self-restraint and inspires you to self-sacrifice.

* * *

It cultivates your eye for beauty—and teaches you to be economical.

* * *

Above all, it makes you feel like a "responsible citizen."

* * *

There is nothing like owning a piece of your native Land, with a house on it, to fill you with patriotism and inspire you with a vital interest in civic affairs and politics.

* * *

And never, never, until you own your own house, do you know how many millions of things you can DO WITHOUT!

Science Now Attacks Tidal Action Theory

By Archibald Henderson

The present century was inaugurated with a smashing blow to the famous nebular hypothesis of Laplace, which had held virtually undisputed sway for more than a century. Profs. Chamberlain and Moulton, of the University of Chicago, advanced a new theory of the solar system, to which was given the name of "the planetesimal hypothesis." It had its origin, perhaps, in a contemplation of the vast streams or fountains of matter which are constantly being ejected hundreds of thousands of miles into the space surrounding the sun.

Then two scientists, one a geologist, the other an astronomer, assumed the existence originally of a huge sun, very much as it is today, only vastly larger. Eons ago it was ejecting these huge fountains of matter, much as it is doing today. Again, these two scientists had to assume the existence of some mighty star, which went ploughing its way through space. Adopting the ideas of Buffon, put forward in the eighteenth century, they studied the effects upon the sun of the near approach to it of this giant star. By sheer force of gravity the star would pull vast streams of matter from the sun; thus would be formed two giant arms of matter.

On the basis of analogy of the spiral nebulae, thousands of which are now known to exist, Chamberlin and Moulton presumed that the sun, in its new state, constituted a sort of spiral nebula. Knots or condensations gradually formed in these mighty arms; and these knots of matter, after ejection, were what they designated planetesimals. Each of these great eruptions eventually gave rise to very many planetesimals, which ultimately united into a single mass or planet. Various eruptions, great and small, were required in this planetesimal theory—the great eruptions giving rise to the planets, the lesser eruptions giving rise to satellites, planetesimals and other minor bodies.

This theory was developed in considerable detail by Jeans and other British mathematicians. They attached to the developed theory a new name, the tidal or tidal action theory, although it remained fundamentally the same theory as that of Chamberlin and Moulton. Jeans finally reached the conclusion that the so-called tidal action, or the pulling out of the sun of huge fountains of matter by a passing star, was adequate to explain the origin of the solar system. It was not necessary to assume that there were intermittent eruptions, some large, some less large, in order to explain the formation of individual planets, satellites and the like.

Now, after 30 years of almost uninterrupted triumphs, the theory of the two American scientists, as modified by Jeans and other British scientists, is being attacked and threatened.

Rotation had to be explained; and Jeans attempted to explain it on the assumption that ejected matter falls back into the sun, say, after having acquired a transverse motion during its path. But the amount of rotation to suit this explanation falls far short of what would be necessary to produce the known phenomena. The tidal theory would give rise to a universe somewhat resembling our own. But as Jeffreys has pointed out, it would never supply planets rotating with anything near their actual known speeds.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

He starts his letter by announcing that he's "an exceptional case."

"I'm a coward and know it," says he—and dares you to contradict him. "I'm afraid of life, afraid of other people, afraid of myself. I long for life, yet shun it. I feel inadequate, shy, inferior, yet, I'm usually considered conceited and stuck-up because I don't mix. I'm sensitive, easily discouraged and given to self-pity, for I am always misunderstood. Yet I can do wonders if anyone will love and praise me.

"I admit I'm temperamental and suffer agonies of moodiness and sulkiness. I like to make excuses and put off doing things. It is hard for me to make up my mind to do things. Altogether, I am in a hopeless muddle. My life is a failure. Can anyone whose life is such a peculiar mixture of weakness ever amount to anything?"

Recognize these symptons? Sound vaguely familiar, don't they? Sure they do. You've heard them—perhaps you've reported them yourself—a thousand times. Yet this young man honestly believes that he "is an exceptional case."

Of course he isn't. Everybody's like that. Everybody's sensitive, easily discouraged, given to fits of pouts and self-pity. Everyone is misunderstood. Everyone has sinking spells of inferiority—alternating with snooty spells of superiority. Everyone likes to make excuses and put things off.

But what of it? Is that any reason for passing up life? None at all. And most of us—after being plenty swatted for making nuisances of ourselves—learn this wholesome truth in time and settle down and get busy.

There are, however, an increasing number of Human Hagnails who go right on insisting that they're Different and therefore exempt from all the regular rules and by-laws. In fact, they make a profession of Being Different. Of course they pretend that Being Different is a frightful affliction and they plead for advice which will help them to be regular. But will they follow that advice when they get it? Never! For the last thing they want is to be regular. Life is an unbearable blight and burden unless they can Be Different. And there's a reason—

Usually such people are a colorless, spineless lot . . . and inwardly aflame with prickly heat because no one notices them. So they make up for it by noticing themselves. They spend endless hours in self analysis . . . in pawing over and classifying their inhibitions and complexes and psychic scars . . . in proving to themselves that they are Fate's pet victims. IF THEY SPENT HALF AS MUCH TIME BATTLING THEIR FAILURES AS THEY SPEND BOASTING ABOUT THEM, THEY WOULD SPEEDILY BECOME HAPPY AND USEFUL CITIZENS.

But useful is another thing they don't hanker to be, for they are lazy as well as conceited. And for those who wish to avoid irksome responsibilities, Being Different is a magic expedient. Think of the alibis you can pull and the tiresome jobs you can escape—if you're Different. Think of the soft snaps you can grab off for yourself, and the grief you can hang on the other fellow. Could any scheme be neater? No scheme could.

So don't waste too much sympathy on the chap who complains that he's different and asks you how he can change. Maybe he's sincere. And if he is, his cure is the simplest thing on earth. He need only cut out his cry-baby cowardice and conceit and laziness and snap into action, regardless of his inner feelings, like any regular human. But the chances are he knows that already and has spent most of his life ducking just such a program. He doesn't really want to change. He has a grand little racket and he intends to hang on to it.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

My Enemy

My enemy crept in with cruel guile
And stole the treasure that I held most dear,
Leaving my life a barren place, no smile
Was there, no dreams, no hope, no fear.
For when on that unnatural, dark dawn
My house of life in shattered ruins lay,
After the gem that centered all was gone,
It mattered naught what fate might take away.

Yet, after anguish ebbs and grief is done,
When passion's tempests pass, the hate, the pain,
A strange, new peace, a surer strength is won;
No lies, no idols here shall rule again.
My enemy? A thorn on which I trod
In the long pathway leading up to God!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 13.—I dropped around to my dentist today to have him slip a washer or something on one of my few remaining fangs. It is beginning to wobble somewhat like Leon Errol's off leg. Just one gob of taffy and I'd be snapping at vittles with bare gums.

Otherwise I am dandy, thanks. Nobody has more fun in a dentist's chair than I. My dentist, Guy Campbell, is one of my oldest New York friends. When I came to town he was just out of dental college with a walk up office, a moth eaten plush chair and a water faucet that whistled.

I have watched him progress into a marble halled edifice on the fashionable East Side where modernistically coppered elevators are manned by myrmidons in plum colored broadcloth. There's a Persian rug on the floor and a Cezanne on the wall—the lucky stiff!

When we have closed the door on the walking Watteau who receives the customers in the reception salon, the doctor drops his grand and professional manner. He doffs the ermine for the double seated corduroy and calls me a cockeyed soandso and I blister him as a fossilized tusk polisher, etc.

Also we exchange a few yarns—nothing off color, of course, but mayhap a shade spicy — wonder what has become of the old Seventy-second street crowd. Smitty, the hotel clerk; Harry, the bartender, and Old Wash, the night elevator man. And sometimes we wind up wrestling.

Then I climb into the chair, open the mammoth cave and he begins poking around with a piece of wire. Every now and then he touches something that suggests the quick bursting kiss of a tropical lightning bolt. But we just laugh it off. He and I. Also heigh, what ho and horse mackerel.

* * *

Today he snipped off a couple of yards of rubber, clamped it on the offending molar and smeared it with something tasting like sour caviar mixed with brass polish. Then he propped my mouth open, folded his arms and stood looking out the window in a sort of revery. When I get lost in thought that way, friends often fetch me in from a deserted swamp, all bitten up by mosquitoes. I'd be a swell mess if he suddenly walked out on me.

"Issen ock," I struggled to inquire, "oo ont i onay hance eside oo wok oot au mo il ooo?"

He just nodded and replied: "Oh, they are all fine, thanks. The children are at the beach for the weather." He didn't understand a durn thing. I wasn't asking him about his family or children. I wanted to know if there was any chance of him walking out on me.

* * *

So I just sat there giving a Tom Thumb imitation of the Hoosac Tunnel and dribbling around the edges. Finally I ventured: "Ow uch angwa ooi aa oo it ere, oo igg um?"—which freely translated ran: "How much longer do I have to sit here, you big bum?" He would just smile, indulge a nugatory nod as though agreeing with me, look in at the tooth now and then and go on with his window gazing. Then he was called out into the reception room. "Excuse me," he said. "Yashawri," I bubbled.

Nothing, outside of a loose tooth, fascinates me like one of those mechanical boards by the side of a dentist's chair—squirt bottles, switches, tiny electric bulbs, mysterious pull-out tubes, registering dials, push buttons and myriad other hoot-nannies. I sat up in my chair all eager eyed and drooling and listened for the doctor. He was broadening A's with some high handshake patient. So I reached out timidly, waited a second and yanked down a switch. Somewhere a bell rang, there was a whirring noise and pinkish stuff began bubbling up in a sort of test tube. I don't care for pink, so I threw another switch, hoping for green. I'm a fool for green. Instead a dingus like an old-fashioned egg beater all lit up and began to revolve. Then the doctor came back in the room.

* * *

I laid back in my chair and closed my eyes, innocent like. He immediately asked what in the blankety-blank I was trying to do. I lifted up my head: "Oo ee?" He snapped, "Yes you!" But I do wish he had not come back so soon. I've always wanted to sail a paper boat in that revolving what-not at the side of a dental chair.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Does your happiness depend too much upon other people?

Are you uneasy and discontented when you are alone?

Within yourself do you seem not to be able to interest or amuse yourself in anything?

You must have the association with others, irrespective of whether their society is beneficial to you or otherwise.

None should be lonely if it be possible to procure books.

You have missed a lot if you have not cultivated the reading habit.

One of the most pitiful of persons was one who stated that at no time in his life had he cared for reading.

Reaching the age limit where he was employed, he retired.

He wandered around—was disconsolate.

Asked why he did not spend some leisure in reading he replied that he had never in all his life become interested in a book or a magazine.

No special cronies—time on his hands—life was a bore to him.

He admitted that death would be a happy release.

This man, in fairly good health, enough money to meet his wants and wishing to die because he could not amuse himself, should set you thinking.
